FRENCH TRANS-OCEAN FLYERS START

LEAVE ON SOUTHERN ROUTE WITH BUENOS AIRES FLIGHT GOAL

Aviators Will Stop At Senegal On Way To Brazil

PARIS, Oct. 10. — Diu-donne Costes and Lieutenant Le Brix, the two French aviators who had intended to fly to New York, took off from Le Bourget field at 9:49 a. m. today for St. Louis, Senegal, on the first leg of their flight to Buenos Aires, Argentina.

The take off of their plane, the "Nungesser-Coli" was perfect.

Before taking off, Costes tried out his motors for three minutes. Then he shot down the field and headed south towards Africa.

The hop to St. Louis is 4,300 kilometres. After remaining there overnight, the aviators expect to take off across the south Atlantic to Pernambuco, Brazil, a distance of 3,200 kilometres. A third hop of 2,000 kilometres will bring them to Rio de Janeiro, and then they will fly the remaining 1,870 kilometres to Buenos Aires.

The take-off was attended by several distinguished persons, including the Argentine Ambassador Alvarez de Toledo and many members of the Latin-American colony in Paris. The two Breguet brothers, builders of the plane, were also present.

The two aviators arrived on the field at six o'clock and the loading of their plane, which was stocked with 2,800 litres of gasoline and 240 litres of oil. The plane is also carrying 1,200 pounds of merchandise including perfumes, lace, letters, and Paris morning papers.

Before starting off, Captain Le-maitre, a friend of Costes, made a short flight and reported the weather conditions.

HUGE CROWDS GREET EVANGELIST; HEAR CLOSING SERVICES

Dr. Biederwolf Ends Revival Program Monday Night

"If you can prove to me that Jesus Christ is not the son of God and that there is no hell, and all the rest of it as conclusively as you want me to prove the contrary to you, I'll shut my mouth forever on the subject. But unless you are dead sure that He was not divine and there is no hell, you are a big fool for knifing religion as long as there is one single good reason on the other side." These were the remarks in part of Dr. W. E. Biederwolf at First M. E. Church Sunday night.

"I'm a happier man than you are anyhow. If religion is a dream, for God's sake don't wake me up! I'm enjoying it too much. And if it isn't a dream I'll be fixed for the next world as you are anyhow. You say 'There is no hell.' I say to you 'There may be.' Yes, you say, 'There's a possibility.' Well then, why don't you have some sense and be prepared for the possibility. They don't expect the ship to sink. It may sink, so they put on life boats. They prepare for the possibility." He took the text of Jeremiah, 8th chapter and 20th verse. "The harvest is past, the summer is ended, and we are not saved." The evangelist applied that text to the assembled company in connection with the present meetings which close Monday night.

He asked why some had attended.

THEATER STRIKE IS FACING COLUMBUS

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 10.—Columbus' two principal vaudeville theaters, Keith's and Loew's, today were operating with non-union orchestras, brought here from New York City Sunday, following the failure of negotiations with union musicians for a new wage contract. The musicians' union officials declared that stage hands, electricians and other affiliated crafts in these and other theaters here controlled by the same management, probably will be called out within two weeks.

TENEMENT BOMB KILLS FIVE

REPORT 10,000 CASUALTIES AMONG SHANSI TROOPS AFTER FIGHTING ALONG RAIL FRONT

PEKING, Oct. 10.—A steady stream of wounded soldiers flowed into Peking today from the Hankow railway front, where 10,000 Shansi troops are reported to have been killed, wounded or captured in the present offensive of Marshal Chang Tso Lin's army.

Holiday crowds watched the arrival of the wounded soldiers as they were carried from railway trains.

Gen. Chang Hsueh Liang telegraphed to Marshal Chang that he is continuing his advance towards Chichiaichang, where he plans to occupy in three days.

PEKING, Oct. 10.—Ten thousand Shansi troops have been killed, wounded and captured during the initial drive of the Chang-Tso-Lin forces southward to the Hankow railway, according to a telegram which reached here today from Chang's headquarters.

Chang's headquarters also reported that careful preparations have been made for an offensive today towards Kalgan with a simultaneous drive from the north, aided by Shansi Malcontents, towards Taping on the western end of the Peking-Suiyuan railway.

According to Peking intelligence officers, prisoners taken during Chang's drive claim that Feng-Yu Shiang had failed to send troops to support the Shansi forces, thereby leaving it to them to bear the full brunt of Chang's offensive.

Chang is reported to have offered $50,000 reward to the troops capturing Shih-Chieh-Wang, the Shansi's eastern railway terminus.

URGES GOVERNMENT CONTROL OF POWER; INVESTIGATION DUE

Insurgent Predicts Legislatures Will Take Action

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Government control of the $10,000,000,000 light and power industry, through legislation and federal example, will be made a major issue at the coming session of congress and carried into the 1928 presidential campaign, Senator George W. Norris (R) of Neb., insurgent leader of the senate predicted here today.

The proposed Walsh investigation of the power industry, action on the Boulder Dam bill and disposition of the $100,000,000 Muscle Shoals project will bring the issue before congress, Norris said. The Walsh inquiry will reveal such an exploitation of the American public by the power industry, Norris declared, that either congress or the states will be forced to enact remedial legislation.

"The Walsh investigation will arouse the people and force state legislatures or congress to further safeguard their rights," said Norris. "There will be some federal legislation but it will depend on how quickly and how far the state legislatures correct existing conditions after the people are informed."

Government operation of Muscle Shoals as a power project and government supervision of Boulder Dam as a power project, Norris said, would quickly demonstrate to the people "how they have been mucked and gouged by the power industry."

To prevent this revelation, Norris maintained, has caused the power industry to oppose government ownership of either project on the ground it would "place the government in business."

"The Walsh investigation will show how the so-called power trust take the insular interests for example—go into a town and buy the municipally operated power plant at double its value," Norris declared. "Say a plant is worth $50,000, the insular will buy it for $100,000. Then, the insular concern gets the state commission to fix rates which will pay an eight per cent return upon the $100,000 investment. The people are gouged, not because the state commissions are dishonest, but because the commissions either are fooled by the power trust or else the local laws are inadequate to protect the people from the inflated values."

"This has been going on all over the nation and it is a question of only a short time before the power trust will have complete control over the production and distribution of electricity all over the United States. This will give a few men an absolute monopoly over a necessity of life as in modern life, electricity has become a necessity in every home. In the future, its needs will grow and it will become as much a necessity as water or bread. When such a necessity is controlled by private monopoly, living conditions will be intolerable and a free people will not submit to them."

FIREMEN BRING STUDENT TO LIFE

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 10.—William C. Stillwell, 23, a co-operative student at Cincinnati University, today was recovering in Jewish hospital here, after he was literally brought back from the dead Sunday by Cincinnati firemen. Stillwell, at work in a power station, came in contact with a high-tension wire, and a fire department life-saving crew found him lifeless, with his heart stopped, when they arrived. They applied first aid methods, pulmotors, and counter shocks. They restored heart activity, after an hour's hard work.

SEARCH GOLF LINKS FOR YOUTH MISSING WEEK; BELIEVED DEAD

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—Authorities today sought throughout the vicinity of the Skokie and Bob-O-Link country clubs for the body of little Teddy Franks, 15, a caddy and school boy, missing from his home here a week, and believed to have been slain.

Several witnesses have informed officers that probably Teddy was murdered because of an argument with another caddy. A clay hole will be dragged at the edge of a golf link.

The investigation has disclosed several important clues that indicate that Teddy might have been murdered. One rival caddy, known among his companions as Gumbo, is said to have made threats against the missing lad. Gumbo was quoted as telling the Frank lad to keep away and to have said: "You stay away from here from now on, or they'll find you in one of these ponds."

The boy Frank was liked by women members of the two clubs. They would ask for him and the caddies said young Frank would get big tips. The tips are said to have aroused jealousy in the other boys.

MEXICAN LABOR AND LEADERS SIGN PACT FAVORING OBREGON

Convention Learns Labor Battalions To Replace Army

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 10.—Understanding of a tacit agreement among the leaders of Mexico that General Alvaro Obregon should return to the presidency in 1928 and fulfill promises for the establishment in the southern republic of a proletarian army composed of labor battalions, are among startling revelations in a report to the American Federation of Labor convention made today by its executive council.

The report, submitted by President William Green, represents the results of an exhaustive investigation by the A. F. of L. executive council into the alleged relationship between the Mexican Federation of Labor and the Mexican government.

Tracing revolutionary events in the southern republic, the report recites the overthrow of the Carranza government in May 1920 and the subsequent naming of Adolfo de la Huerta as provisional president. In the election immediately following Obregon was elected president to fill the next constitutional term that began Dec. 1, 1920.

It is said that an understanding was reached that General Plutarco E. Calles should succeed Obregon as president, and that Obregon should return to that office in 1928, the executive council reports. "De La Huerta is said to have developed an unexpected popularity while Calles was unpopular with the army, without which the chances of success were negligible."

"De La Huerta started a rebellion against Obregon," the report continues. "This rebellion was opposed by General Calles, who espoused and most enthusiastically advocated the cause of the Agarians. He likewise cultivated the friendly and sympathetic attitude of the Mexican Federation of Labor. Because of the support of Obregon, who had the backing of the majority of the army and the Mexican Federation of Labor, General Calles was elected president to succeed Obregon."

"It is stated that Obregon has great difficulty in persuading the general of the army to support Calles. They hated him, and Calles was said to have been suspicious of them, fearing they would later turn against him. It is said that because of this fear of the army generals that Calles, two days before he was inaugurated as president of Mexico entered into an agreement with Luis Morones."

AVIATOR SWIMS TO SAFETY AS PLANE FALLS IN MISSISSIPPI

NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. 10.—While circling about the airport here in welcome to Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, who was returning from the Pensacola naval air station, Lieutenant Commander Davis of Pensacola, crashed into the Mississippi river early this morning and was forced to swim to safety. His plane was wrecked but Davis was unharmed.

Colonel Lindbergh spent forty minutes cruising the country near the landing field in the Spirit of St. Louis hunting the plane before it was sighted in the river. Colonel Lindbergh had landed while Davis was circling about and a few minutes later, it was discovered that Davis had disappeared. Colonel Lindbergh immediately took to the air in search for him, but by the time he sighted the wrecked plane, Davis swam to the bank on the other side of the river. After Davis had telephoned his safety, Lindbergh took off at 7:50 a. m. for Jacksonville, Fla., nearly two hours behind schedule.

DIVORCE INDICATES

YETON, Oct. 10.—Despite rapidly increasing divorce and the general instability of matrimonial bonds, possible to the greater pressure which modern life is lived, marriages still outnumber the legal separations by the rate of more than ten to one, according to the United States bureau of the census.

A careful analysis of marriage records discloses in proportion to population the greatest number of weddings occurring in the west south central states of Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Oklahoma and Texas.

The south Atlantic group also is made up of states of many marriages with a rate of more than eleven to the 1,000 population. In this section the individual state record for marriages in 1925 was shattered by Florida where 21.6 out of every 1,000 were married. Maryland took second place with 16.3 while Mississippi ranked third with sixteen.

Conservative New England. The more conservative New England states have the lowest marriage rate with about 7.9 to the 1,000 population, while the middle Atlantic, comprising New York, Pennsylvania and other industrial states has a rate of about 8.6.

The marriage analysis is featured by the statement that in United States are forty-three counties in which the marriage rate is three times that of the state in which they lie.

These "Gretna Greens" usually are confined to one or to a few counties of the particular state.

Gretna Greens. "Many of the Gretna Greens are small towns, in counties adjacent to large cities."

Cecil County, Maryland, takes the county record with 203 marriages per 1,000 population.

The following counties are given as the places of more runaway marriages than all the rest of the United States combined:

California—Orange County, Colorado—Arapahoe, Jefferson and Sedgewick counties.

Florida—Broward County, Georgia—Charlton, Quitman and Walker counties.

Idaho—Kootenai County, Illinois—Lake and Monroe counties.

Indiana—Clark County, Iowa—Miller County.

Kansas—Johnson County, Kentucky—Boyd, Campbell and Kenton counties.

Louisiana—St. Bernard Parish, Maryland—Cecil, Garrett and Howard counties.

Michigan—Menominee and Monroe counties.

Nebraska—Sarpy County, New Mexico—Hidalgo County, Ohio—Lawrence County.

South Dakota—Union County, Tennessee—Sullivan County, Texas—Comal, Lamb, Pecos and Rockwall counties.

Utah—Davis County, Virginia—Greensville, Alexandria and Danville counties.

CHARLES CONFARR OF CLIFTON DIES

Charles Confarr, 77, postmaster of Clifton, died at his home in that village, Monday morning at 1 o'clock. Death followed his third stroke of paralysis, suffered Sunday morning at 4 o'clock and which affected his left side.

Mr. Confarr was born in Clifton and spent his entire life there. He was a blacksmith until seven years ago and has held the office of postmaster five years.

He leaves his widow and one son, Lloyd Confarr, Cedarville, and two sisters, Mrs. Louisa Wheeler, Dayton, and Mrs. S. C. Brown, Clifton.

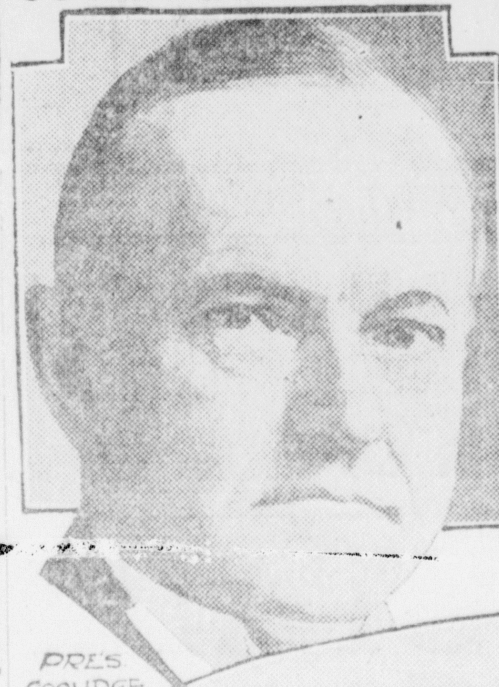

He was a member of the Clifton Presbyterian Church and the K. of P. Lodge of that place and the Masonic Lodge of Yellow Springs. Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Clifton Presbyterian Church with burial in the Clifton cemetery.

Flying Teacher

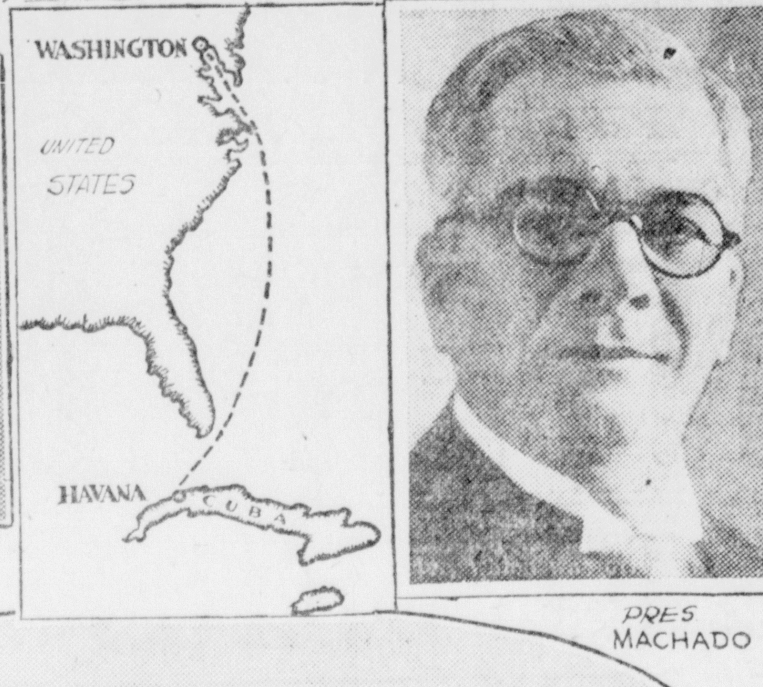

Last June, Miss Beatrice Townsend, New Orleans school teacher, took her first ride in an airplane. A few days later she left for Lambert Field, St. Louis, to take an intensive course in aviation, in both flying and mechanical technique. She now holds a pilot's license and hopes to own a plane of her own. Although still teaching school, Miss Townsend has applied for a pilot's job in the air mail service between New Orleans and Atlanta.

COOLIDGE EXPECTED TO VISIT CUBA FOR CONFERENCE

PRES. COOLIDGE

PRES. MACHADO

President Coolidge is reported to have decided to accept the invitation of President Gerardo Machado of Cuba to attend the opening of the Pan-American Union on Jan. 16. Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg probably will accompany him and most of the American ambassadors to the southern republic will be present at the meeting. Woodrow Wilson was the only other president to sail for foreign shores during his term of office. President Coolidge is expected to remain in Cuba only a few days, returning to the United States as soon as possible. Above, insets of the two presidents, map of the Washington-Cuba route and a harbor view of Havana.

PLANS TO DISPOSE OF MUSCLE SHOALS TO BE CONSIDERED

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Oct. 10.—A thorough airing of the Muscle Shoals disposal question will be given when the Southern Appalachian Power Conference meets here for a three-day session beginning October 13. It was announced here today by T. R. Preston, local backers of president of the conference.

Every senator and representative from the twelve Southeastern states involved has been invited to attend the conference and give his views on the proper disposal of the giant hydro-power plant at Muscle Shoals.

There are many proposals for the disposal of Muscle Shoals. There are factions in the South which believe that it should be sold to fertilizer producers, other groups who think the power companies should be permitted to buy the site and others who think Henry Ford should be drafted to re-submit his offer for the project.

Representatives from each of these groups have been invited to address the conference, and out of all the conflicting views as to which disposal is best, a thorough ventilation of the entire matter is expected.

The Southern Appalachian Power Conference holds no brief for either of the disposal proposals regarding Muscle Shoals," said Dr. Joseph Hyde Pratt, chairman of the executive committee of the conference. "The conference merely wants to get the whole question before the people. All the various groups hold a belief in common and that is that the Muscle Shoals project should be put to some use wherein its full powers can be developed. In addition to the throttling of the gigantic project, the congressional red tape that entwines the Muscle Shoals matter, also serves to place an embargo against further power development on the upper Tennessee River and its tributaries and thus retard the development of power in the South. If this is to continue the South in the next decade or so will face a problem of insufficient electric energy to operate its great industrial projects, and it is important for that reason that the Muscle Shoals question be disposed of."

In addition to Muscle Shoals, the Chattanooga meeting will take up the widely discussed topic of electrification of farms and rural sections, flood control in relation to power development, decentralization of industry and co-ordination of power projects already developed.

Governors Invited. Governors of twelve Southern states have been invited to delegate fifteen citizens of each state to represent each of their states at the conference. Practically every Governor has already named delegates, as has practically every industrial, commercial and agricultural organization of the South, and the Chattanooga gathering

MARRIAGE LICENSE FOR BRIGHAM YOUNG RECORDED IN OHIO

CHARDON, O., Oct. 10.—Brigham Young's first marriage license in Geauga County and is on file in the office of Probate Judge Charles S. Lenhart.

In the beginning of the last century the Mormons flourished in Kirtland, near Chardon, where a temple erected by them is standing today in an excellent state of preservation.

Brigham Young journeyed to Chardon and obtained his license to take his first plunge into matrimonial seas. The license reads accurately, with strict attention to punctuation and capitalization, as follows:

"The State of Ohio, Geauga County ss. Personally appeared Brigham Young and made application for a marriage license for himself and Mary Ann Angel of township of Kirtland in said county, and made solemn oath that he, the said Brigham Young is of age of twenty-one years, and the said Mary Ann Angel is of the age of eighteen years; that they are both single, and not nearer of kin than first cousins, that he knows of no legal impediment against their being joined in marriage."

(Signed) Brigham Young or Brigham Young

Sworn to and subscribed this 10th day of February, 1834, Before me, Ralph Cowles, Dep. Clerk.

The signature is clearly not "Brigham" and it is not clear whether it is Brigham or Brigham. Judge Lenhart inclines to the opinion that the first is the spelling given.

It is interesting to note that Mr. Young made solemn oath that

ILLINOIS PAPERS IN CONSOLIDATION

DANVILLE, Ill., Oct. 10.—The Danville Morning Press has been purchased by the Danville Commercial News and merged with the latter paper.

The merged paper will be issued every week-day afternoon and with a Sunday morning edition, and the consolidation will permit of enlargements and improvement of service.

In announcing the merger, the management of The Commercial News issued this statement: "This consolidation of interests into a one newspaper town is not new. It has been the tendency for a number of years. Consolidation of newspapers has been taking place all over the country."

"People are demanding better and better newspapers and to meet that demand a paper must have greater resources which can only be managed by consolidation. Both political parties will be treated fairly and the news of each part printed in full. The good of the public rather than servility to party will be our policy."

BILIOUS? DON'T BE!

Biliousness is a symptom, not a disease. A sour, sick, belching, gassy stomach gets that way because of neglected constipation. Ordinary laxatives don't seem to help much, because the liver, the stomach, the spleen, and the intestines, all have to be aided. Constipation slows up the function of and interferes even with the brain's activity.

Blackburn's Cascara-Royal Pills arouse the liver, tone up the stomach and intestines, stimulate the glandular secretions, in a pleasant way. When the internal organs function regularly, away goes biliousness, sour stomach, and indigestion.

Have you a throbbing at the temples, a bad taste in the mouth, halitosis (unpleasant breath), sour, bilious stomach, dark rings under the eyes and an irritable don't-care-tantrum? Take Blackburn's Cascara-Royal Pills. Wake up your ambition and energy and feel good every day. In less than a dozen hours you will be on the "Wellville" road. Forty-five pills—30 cts.—at all drugstores.

YOUNG WOMEN MAY KEEP WELL

By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Here is Proof

St. Paul, Minn.—"Here is a little advice I would like to have you put in the papers," Mrs. Jack Lorberter of 704 Dellwood Place wrote to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Company. "If young women want to keep their health and strength for the next thirty years of their lives, it is best to start when they are young."

In right now and take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have tried the Compound myself and received fine results." In describing her condition before taking the Compound, she writes, "I was afraid in my own house in broad daylight, I used to lock the doors and pull down the shades so that nobody could see me." One day a booklet advertising the Vegetable Compound was left on her porch and she read it through. In so doing, she found a letter from a woman whose condition was similar to her own. "I bought the Vegetable Compound," Mrs. Lorberter continued, "and have had fine results. The condition I was in made me a burden to my husband. Now I ask 'How is housekeeping?' and he says, 'It is just like being in Heaven!'"

Farm Notes

NEEDED HIGH YIELD

Unless the Ohio farmer's oats crop threshed out better than thirty-seven bushels an acre, he probably made no profit on the crop this year.

Rural economists at the Ohio State University say that on the basis of cost of production records kept on twenty Putnam County farms this summer, John F. Dower, one of the economists, puts it this way:

"The average cost of producing oats was $15.50 an acre on twenty Putnam County farms this year, costs ranging from $12.32 to $24.20 an acre. With oats worth 42 cents a bushel, it would take thirty-seven bushels to pay the average cost of production on an acre.

"The 290 acres of oats harvested this year on these farms yielded

SAYS BOOKS WORTH MORE THAN BATTLES

Dr. James I. Weyer, director of the N. Y. State Library school is one of those who believes the pen is mightier than the sword.

Speaking before the New York Library Association, he took Cressy's fifteen decisive battles and listed against each a book of approximately the same date. "In Dr. Weyer's opinion these books have proved of more worth to the world than the fifteen battles:

work for the year and will attend the Central Ohio Annual Conference this week in Springfield. At the noon hour the delegates were served dinner in the dining hall of Shorter Hall.

A special program for the afternoon was prepared by the vice-president of the society, Mrs. Christine Smith of Detroit, Michigan, and was participated in by the students who delivered musical numbers and songs and addresses. The delegates attending the meeting in Columbus, Mrs. Christine Smith, president, and in her opening address complimented the splendid student body, the work of the school, and what it stood for, and she lived to see students educated at the school dedicate their lives for the cause of missionary work in the foreign fields, and in her travels in South America and other European countries, and especially in the dark continent of West and Central Africa, the African students who were supported by the Women's Mite Missionary Society had returned to their native country and established schools. She also spoke of the splendid work of Bishop John A. Gregg, former president of the university, also of his wife, who has accompanied him in most of his trips into the interior of Africa.

Miss Hallie Q. Brown gave a very interesting talk on missions as conducted by Bishop Daniel A. Payne, the founder of Wilberforce University, and how he prayed that the time might come when students from Africa would be sent to the school and educated, and since the death of Bishop Payne over forty students were sent to the school and trained for missionary work. Mrs. Bertha K. Hurst, who has recently returned from an extended visit in Europe, spoke of the missionary work in Florida, how she and her husband, Bishop John Hurst, attended services on the Sabbath in Paris, France, and then the people in the afternoon of Sunday attended bull fights. She declared not only did France want missionaries, but the United States felt the imperative need of missionary work. Other inspiring addresses were made by ladies representing Africa, Bermuda, South America and Sierra Leone. Two students in attendance at the school being educated for missionary work, Misses Zella Turner and Wiggins were introduced to the delegates by Mrs. Smith.

At the close of the program President Jones thanked the visitors for their visit and asked them to use their influence in having young men and women of their respective fields attend Wilberforce University.

The HEART of the HEATROLA that floods your whole house with COMFORT

THIS is the Intensi-Fire Air Duct—the heart of the Heatrola's double air-circulating system.

Built right in the path of the flames, this unique device blocks much of the heat that an ordinary stove or furnace allows to escape up the chimney. That is why Heatrola floods every room in the house with even, healthful heat. Why it leaves no "cold spots" or "hot spots." Why chilly upstairs rooms become just as toasty warm as the living-room.

Come in, or invite us to call—and let us demonstrate how the beautiful Heatrola will fill your entire house with cheerful warmth and save on an average of 45% in fuel.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Jacobs, S. Detroit St., had as their guests over the week end, Mrs. Margaret Jacobs, Mr. William Greenly and Mr. Judge Gray, all of Maysville, Ky.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Wood spent Sunday in Columbus, with their son, Mr. John Wood.

Miss Virginia Cooper, Greenfield, Ind., is arriving Tuesday for an indefinite visit with Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Lawson, W. Third St.

PHYSICIAN URGES

NEED FOR PROPER

FOOD FOR PUPILS

Dr. H. C. Messenger, Xenia physician and baby specialist, issued a statement Monday, outlining the importance of the proper care and feeding of children, and urging support of the Federated P. T. A. drive for $1,000 Tuesday, for underprivileged children of the city.

"The period while a child is attending school is an extremely active one. The vast number of metabolic changes going on and the growth of the body demand plenty and suitable food," the physician said.

"The physical development should receive as much attention as the mental growth and this is best accomplished by seeing that the child is given food properly chosen for his requirements and so prepared that it is readily digested. Many children of the school age, although they eat three regular meals daily, are undernourished because they are forced to eat food intended for adults and not adapted to their needs," he said.

"There is a lack of knowledge among all classes as regards the nourishment required by a growing school child who is active from early morning until 8 o'clock at night or later. He is, as a rule, fed to satisfy his appetite and when this is accomplished, the parents believe their duty is done.

"To a grown person, the loss of a pound or two in weight means practically nothing, but to a child who only gains normally from five to six pounds a year, this loss is important and should be continued, resistance is lowered, the child tires easily, is listless, inattentive, learns slowly and is susceptible to any disease that is prevalent. When tuberculosis develops in childhood it is always in those undernourished.

By serving nutritious, well-cooked lunches at noon, the time that it is most helpful to children in the schools, the greatest possible good is done and records show that by this simple procedure there is a marked gain in weight by the end of the year, quite often immediately noticed, as well as a decided change for the better in health and behavior.

GYPSIES LEAD COPS

MERRY CHASE; ONE

THEFT IS REPORTED

Police were occupied the greater part of Saturday in chasing out of the city a band of gypsies that invaded Xenia and attempted to victimize a number of Xenia business establishments.

Patrolman Fred Jones was kept especially busy in ordering more than twenty gypsies out of the city.

Eighteen automobiles carried the gypsies, who immediately scattered throughout the business district during the rush hours and gave police a merry chase in rounding them up.

One theft was reported. A woman stole a $10 bill Saturday from the pocketbook of Mrs. Carrie Flatter, president of the Greene County W. C. T. U., who occupies part of the office rooms of W. O. Custis, realtor, S. Detroit St.

Two women gypsies visited the offices and engaged Mr. Custis and Mrs. Flatter in conversation in different rooms. One snatched Mrs. Flatter's pocketbook and unnoticed by her, removed a $10 bill, before handing the pocketbook back.

Six gypsies visited the W. N. Dawson meat market, Cincinnati Ave., at 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon and while the proprietor's back was turned, two stepped behind the counter and removed bills from the cash register.

Mr. Dawson noticed them and after a struggle retrieved the money and chased the party from the store.

Three gypsies who entered the Dinges drug store Sunday, were chased away by Peter Shagin, motorcycle policeman. No other thefts were reported.

ATTORNEY TO SPEAK

AT KIWANIS DINNER

Morris D. Rice, Osborn attorney, will speak on "Obligations of Citizenship," emphasizing the need of adequate instruction in all schools as to fundamental principles of government, pointing out the destructive influences in national life, when Xenia Kiwanis Club meets at the Elks' Club, Tuesday night.

Elwood Dunkel, Dr. E. A. Kern and T. H. Zell are on the committee for the evening.

WILL STUDY BIBLE

AT WINTER CLASSES

Popular questions will be answered by the Scriptures in the fall and winter Bible Study Classes, under the auspices of the Berean Bible Class, First Reformed Church.

Questions about God, such as "How can human beings, know the great omnipotent, omniscient, omnipresent God, who is Spirit?" will be answered at the home of Mrs. Edwin Buck, 549 N. West St.

Questions about man, such as "What is man? Where did he come from? Why is he here? Where is he going? What happens after death?" will be answered at the home of Mrs. Earl Eavey, 105 W. Third St., the time to be announced later.

The first class of the series will be held at the home of Mrs. Buck Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, to which she invites all women and girls interested in Bible study. In order that the greatest benefit may be derived from these classes, Mrs. Buck is urging a full attendance at the first meeting.

MARTIN J. COFFEY

LAID TO REST HERE

The remains of Martin J. Coffey, 88, former Xenian, who died at his home, 1835 Rutland Ave., Evanson, Cincinnati, Friday, were brought to this city Monday noon and taken direct to St. Bridget cemetery for burial.

Mr. Coffey moved from Xenia to Cincinnati with his family about thirteen years ago. His wife preceded him in death, and five daughters and three sons survive.

Funeral services were held Monday morning, with solemn requiem high mass at St. Mark's Church, Cincinnati.

MOTORISTS CITED

AS DOUBLE PARKERS

Police continued their campaign to minimize the number of offenses of double-parking of automobiles in the business section of the city, by citing eight motorists to appear at Police Headquarters for questioning Saturday.

The drive is still in the educational stage and no fines are being imposed upon first offenders.

Police note that the number of violations is gradually being reduced each week end.

TWELVE CASES FOR

COURT OF APPEALS

Twelve cases, appealed on error, are docketed for consideration by the Second District, Greene County Court of Appeals, when it convenes in Common Pleas Court Tuesday morning, Oct. 13.

Deliberations of the appellate court will probably be the only court procedure for the next month for Cleveland, O., to preside on the Cuyahoga County bench, under an assignment of Carrington T. Marshall, chief justice of the Ohio Supreme Court.

RECOVER STOLEN

CAR IN CLEVELAND

A Nash coupe owned by Joseph Gable of the Xenia Iron and Metal Co., stolen in Cincinnati a week ago Saturday, was recovered in Cleveland and returned to the owner, Sunday.

The thieves that took the car while parked on a downtown Cincinnati street, were apprehended in Cleveland and the car was recovered through police reports, although the license plate had been changed. The car was only slightly damaged.

XENIAN IS PAROLED

FROM REFORMATORY

Ninety-one prisoners at the Ohio State Reformatory at Mansfield, O., were paroled at the October meeting of the State Clemency Board, including William E. Terrell, Greene County, whose parole becomes effective November 1.

Terrell, now 22, was arrested June 16, 1925, and sentenced to the state reformatory for from one to fifteen years on a charge of burglary, July 29. He will have served one year and three months of the sentence when he is given his freedom.

MAYOR'S COURT

THREE FINED

Charged with intoxication, Homer Jenkins was fined $10 and costs, Peter Stafford, $25 and costs and Robert Kearney, $15 and costs by Mayor John W. Prugh Monday morning. They pleaded guilty, following their arrest over the week end by police and Pennsylvania railroad detectives. Stafford was also required to pay $5.40, balance due on an old fine.

MORRIS SHARP WILL

HEAD FOODY POST;

SUCCEEDS RICKLES

MORRIS SHARP

Morris Sharp, former sheriff of Greene County, was elected commander of Joseph P. Foody Post, No. 95, American Legion, for the coming year at the regular meeting of the Legion in post hall in the basement of the Court House, featured by annual election of officers, Saturday night. He succeeds William R. Rickles.

Other officers elected, were: Paul Creswell, vice-commander; Deputy Sheriff George Sugden, re-elected adjutant; James C. Curlett, finance officer; and Dr. B. R. McClellan, re-elected chaplain.

An executive committee composed of L. N. Shepard, W. R. Rickles, O. R. Jones, Dr. H. C. Messenger, Paul Fuller and the new officers, was also appointed.

A committee composed of Paul Creswell, L. N. Shepard, Paul Fuller and H. E. Seal was appointed to arrange for a dinner-dance in connection with Armistice Day observance in the basement of the Court House the night of November 11. The gathering will be open to ex-service men and their families and will also be featured by installation of the new officers.

Annual election of officers of the Xenia Vulture, Forty and Eight Society, Legion Auxiliary, will be held next Saturday.

BOMBING WAY TO HAPPINESS

Loading up several ships with malcontents and radical extremists, the President of Chile sent them to an island in the Pacific with his good wishes and his hopes that they might work out a civilization to their own liking.

Out there they can throw bombs, they can engage in any violence or do any of the stunts which they were carrying on in Chile.

If they object to established institutions in their own island balliwick, it will be their right to bomb them. Whatever is wrong in the conduct of affairs, they can demolish with torch and blasting powder.

Being of like minds, they can apply their philosophy of violence without challenge from those who believe in governments, laws and established authority. It is their island, and there will be no capitalistic hand to wrong them or oppose them or humiliate them.

If they believe in the torch and the infernal machine and violence, why should they not on their own island domain pursue liberty as they see it, and shoot up the town or blow up the banks or burn up all the temples of authority? If with them the bomb is preferable as an instrument of freedom to the ballot box, it will be their right if they so will, to bomb the ballot boxes. If a written constitution is the concoction of capitalism, they can spurn it or blow it into fragments and perdition with injury to no emissary of the capitalistic class.

Out there in the Pacific, where the ocean surfs sings the song of liberty on their own island, they can carry out their inalienable rights and every man be vouchsafed life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, as he sees them.

CHANGED WORLD'S HISTORY

The majority of the states now celebrate Columbus day as a holiday and in time most of them will probably do so. His figure is one that seems to grow greater as the centuries recede.

One might well ask how modern life would have been affected, if this great genius had never existed? When would America have been found by any civilized people, and when would our modern developments have started?

The idea that a great continent existed across the globe seemed but an impossible dream to the thinkers of that time. The boldest sailors of that age dared not venture far from European shores in their frail ships. If this constructive and original mind had not thought out the answer to this problem, if this high valor and enterprise had not dared this hazardous feat and skillfully organized what seemed then a hopeless enterprise, the discovery of the new continent might have been delayed for centuries.

$600,000,000 WORTH OF WEEDS

Weeds cost the farmers of the United States six hundred millions of dollars each year, according to H. Howard Biggar, agriculturist. According to the estimate the damage done due to reduction of crop yields at about 315 million dollars. Weeds in grains, hays and various grasses cause a dockage of 30 million dollars yearly. The cost of cutting roadside weeds was put down at 5 million dollars and that of keeping navigable streams free from weeds at 1 million dollars yearly. The remainder of the loss was in the cost of extra labor necessary to till crops because of weeds. This annual weed toll is increasing.

The Way of the World

NO SATURATION

Those who are nervous about the increasing number of motor cars and talk so much about the traffic saturation point ought to study the road situation. No more than 10 per cent of the three million miles of roads in this country are in good condition. In fact we have little more than 250,000 miles of hard surfaced roads. With rapid building of good roads automobile traffic will be nothing to worry about.

APES OR NOT

A famous scientist has declared that proof has now been absolutely established that man is descended from the apes. That is interesting, but it has little bearing on what man ought to do now.

THE "FEEL" OF BUSINESS

Midsummer is a dull time in many lines, and there has been some complaint about business or the lack of it. But with autumn at hand there is a new "feel" in the air and in business. Times are not bad and have not been. There has been temporary dullness—and that period gives promise of being on the way out.

THE GREAT COLLEGE

The Great College will not be a trade school, or a school for any kind of vocational training. Neither will it be a fossilized institution where the time is given to learning names, places, and dates. It will not be a place where the student will endeavor to take on a store of learning, which he will find inapplicable to life when he gets out in the world. The Great College will prepare young men and women to face the problems of life. It will prepare them for living thoughtfully. It will teach them the value of a human being and what the possibilities of the human in this world are.

YOU CAN'T BEAT IT

Much talk about saving life by preventing flying contests and the like. The race to Honolulu was a sad affair, but it won't prevent other races. You can't call off humanity. You can't beat the human spirit. The healthiest men and women love adventure the most. The call of danger will always be answered by the world's leaders.

The Daybook

OF A

New Yorker

By
Burton Rascoe

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—There is a new five and ten-cent store in West Forty-second street. It runs through the whole block, to Forty-third, and is an airy emporium with a cafeteria on its mezzanine floor and all sorts of gadgets to attract new customers. It is much more dazzling and better ventilated than most of its sister stores. Yesterday afternoon it was jammed with well-dressed people buying such things as brooches, chocolate mints, bibs, garters, peanut butter and jam. Yes, the 5 and 10 list now includes delicatessen dainties. You can buy there pretty nearly everything, from a bottle of olives to a plate on which to serve them, for your tea party. A young woman I know, who was recently married and was busily furnishing her new apartment in the East Fifties, used to spend whole afternoons shopping busily at the five-and-ten, and then find that she needed a taxi to transport her and her packages home. The taxi fare, of course, rubbed the bloom off the economy idea, because she could have bought the same kitchen gadgets at one of the cheaper department stores, and could have had them sent home. It probably would not have afforded her as much amusement.

Panorama of New York: A greasy, lecherous-looking middle-aged man slipping a roll of bills into the purse of his companion, a fresh, full-blown opulent girl of about 20, as the two consume chocolate nut sundaes at a drug store counter. He is counseling her to get another tam-o'-shanter just like the one she is wearing, and in which she looks pretty terrible. A fat little woman and a little girl scrambling precariously along the step of a Sixth avenue car until they find a seat that suits them. I have cold chills until they are all set, so dizzy has their process been. A man in a thick coat of Fifth avenue in the thick of theatre traffic, in a fluster, with two police dogs in the back seat, braying and yelping at bus passengers and all pedestrians. The din is terrific. . . . Women pawing at each other to get at the "three-color kitchens" advertised by a department store. . . . exclaiming over pots and pans in lettuce green and canary yellow, even the fly swatter on a nail has a lettuce green handle. . . . Supercilious counter boys at Huyler's, the Mirror, and Happiness shoppers, all high-hatted and one who wants service. . . . More supercilious counter boys at the checkroom at Grand Central station, pretending to be deaf, dumb and blind when I want to check my brief case. . . . Fat women eating special ice cream cake at Schraff's, at 50 cents a throw, and talking about going on a diet.

KELLYGRAMS

Prophets at Home

Of all erroneous theories which have crept into general acceptance, is any farther from truth than that about a prophet in his own country?

The fact is that we are all provincials at heart. Hence we unconsciously assume that those things close at hand which are the best of their kind must necessarily be the best to be found anywhere. . . . simply because they exceed any that we happen to know about.

When I was a small lad in a man in our town named Mat Kump played the brass drum in the Sons of Veterans' Band. I was brought up to believe that Mat Kump was the most skilled bassdrummer in the world. And I still think so. When I pause to consider the thing in a calm, unemotional way, without bias or prejudice, I realize there must have been men somewhere who could play the big drum just as well as Mat Kump did. But I didn't know them personally, and when I think of a bass drum I unconsciously think of it as an instrument which can be played properly only by Mat Kump. Nothing will make two boys from different small towns fight so quickly as an argument over which town has the best "slip-horn" player, or the best baseball catcher. One boy says: "Our team's got the best catcher," and the other boy retorts, "How could he be the best, when our team's got the best catcher in the state?" Then the first boy declares that the catcher in the state, but the best in the United States. The only reason he isn't in the big leagues is that he wants to stay home to help his father. Thus the argument goes on until the two double up their fists and fight.

A prophet is most honored in his own country. A man who worked longer hours than anybody in town. All his friends thought he must be a wonderful executive. He was about the only man in town who returned to his office every night after dinner. But the reason he worked such long hours was not that he was a good executive, but that he was a poor one. He had to make up for lack of ability and lack of system of putting in more hours. All day long he hemmed and hawed and procrastinated and frittered away valuable time instead of flying at his tasks and getting them done. The reason he wasted so much time during the day was that he knew he was going to return to the office at night.

How to Achieve Beauty

BY MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

Lovely Neck and Shoulders Contribute Much to Beauty

The neck and shoulders seem to be the step-child of beauty, and for that reason I am going to devote these talks on how to make them real assets toward your attractiveness. Almost every woman when she cares for her face and figure, neglects the shoulders and neck which come between. She stops at the neckline when she is working from above, and at the collarbone when she is giving attention to her body. It is surprising how many necks you see that are not even immaculately clean.

In my opinion a lovely face is put to shame when it surmounts a ill-cared-for and unattractive neck. Really, your face can only be as good looking as your neck, for there is no actual dividing line. And the same applies to the body. In a way, the neck and shoulders have a double load to carry, for they are glimpsed by the person who looks at you both as part of the face, and part of the body.

I suppose the importance of these two features is more noticeable to the beauty specialist than anyone else. All kinds of necks come to me—scrappy, fat, with a dowager's hump in back, or with collar bones that stand out like the camel's hump in front. I never treat the fact without considering the neck an integral part of it, deserving every bit as much attention, unlike the proverbial step-child it usually is. I do this because I know how essential it is to the newer beauty which comprises the body as a whole, not merely a pretty face or a shapely ankle. You can't hide your neck behind ruffles and ruffs in this day and age.

To me, the neck has come to be a regular index to health, character and disposition. I can tell by the way you hold your head whether you are sullen or vibrant and full of energy, quarrelsome, inquisitive or placidly comfort-loving. I am going to tell you the fine points in keeping a lovely throat line and neck and shoulders straight. First of all, I shall take up the throat line, which will be the subject of the next talk.

Peter's Adventures

By Mrs. Florence Smith Vincent.

The Last Guess and Wrong Again

"Why, why, it's a baby!" stammered Peter. The queer creature nodded.

"Of course. Do you suppose I'd carry about a full-grown son? This little fellow is the youngest anyone else—his's not quite strong enough yet to hop out of my pocket and skip off with his brothers and sisters, but he will be in a day or so.

"And though he is the least of the lot, as far as size goes, he isn't far behind the rest when it comes to matching wits. In fact, none of my youngsters has been a bit cleverer.

"For shame, Bobby, to act like that! You never learned such manners from me!"

The mother had looked down and seen the saucy face her small son was making at the boy, and she smartly cuffed his ears with her paw.

"Why you say a ship wreck is worse?" asked Jed's friend.

"Because," replied Jed, "in a train wreck dere you is, and in a ship wreck where is yo'?"

I became acquainted with butterscotch pie on a brief sojourn in Indiana, and it is a family favorite. I find I get the best results if I moistened with a little milk, until brown, and then mix the other ingredients and cook until thick. It gives it that good, caramel taste that to me is the proper butterscotch flavor.

Hamburg Loaf—Riced Potatoes
Buttered Salad—Butterscotch Pie
Tea or Coffee

Today's Recipes

Hamburg Loaf—Two pounds hamburger, half pound sausage, one small onion, chopped fine; salt and pepper. Mix well and mold in pan. Bake one hour and a quarter. Garnish with hard cooked eggs and parsley. Serve hot or cold.

Butterscotch Pie—Two cups milk, one cup brown sugar, two tablespoons cornstarch, three tablespoons butter, one-fourth spoon salt, two eggs, one-fourth vanilla, pastry crust, one-fourth pound marshmallows. Scald milk in double boiler, mix sugar and cornstarch and add to milk, stir until thick. Cover and cook 15 minutes. Then add butter and salt and egg yolks, slightly beaten, and cook one minute. Add vanilla and remove. Put into pastry crust, soften marshmallows and add to beaten whites, pour over pie and brown in oven. Or, cook sugar and butter until brown. Mix cornstarch, salt, yolks of eggs together, add milk, put with browned mixture, cook until thick, add vanilla and pour into crust.

Marrons—This is the French name for European chestnuts.

Cocconut Custard Pie (Mrs. Mary Morton's Daily Tested Recipe.)

One cup cocconut, two cups milk, one-half cup sugar, two eggs, one-fourth teaspoon salt. Put cocconut through the food chopper and cover with milk; add sugar and let it stand one hour. Beat the eggs and salt together until well mixed and add to cocconut and milk. Line deep pie plate with crust, pour in mixture and bake 25 to 30 minutes in moderate oven. Always soak the cocconut in milk before making the cocconut custard pie.

Quick Potato Salad

A housewife writes: "I found a quick way of making potato salad which is really good, by simply mixing green tomato relish with sliced cooked potatoes and hard boiled eggs, and then adding mayonnaise. This way you can make potato salad even when vegetables are not available or too high priced, and it saves time spent in chopping up separately the pickles, celery, onions, pepper, etc.

Pastry Hint

OYSTER COCKTAIL (Mrs. Mary Morton's Daily Tested Recipe.)

Behind The Scenes In Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Carlos Santiago, for a long, long time, Los Davila, new ambassador from Chile to the United States, is a newspaper man—not the mere owner of a newspaper, who delegates the job of getting it out to hired hands, but the actual working editor of one.

La Nacion—meaning, of course, The Nation—which he helped to establish about 10 years ago in Santiago, the Chilean capital, is his paper, and until a few days before he started for Washington he was "handling" copy on it, and writing "stuff" with never a premonition that he was so soon to become a diplomat.

He's not, in fact, the kind of envoy this country's accustomed to welcoming from abroad—whom "diplomacy" is a game, which the other fellow generally plays better than we do, and usually flim-flams us at—though it's doubtful if the folks he represents wouldn't be better off in the end by giving us a square deal. Ambassador Davila, for variety, arrives among us firm in the faith that international business is just like any other business between friends—to be transacted on the level, with no occasion for any extraordinary degree of slickness on either side.

It so happens that I knew the ambassador before he was an ambassador at all—when he was exclusively a newspaper man, just starting La Nacion.

He's come across the Andes to my town of Buenos Aires to negotiate for what we call, in newspaper-ese, a "telegraph service" for his infant daily—Buenos Aires being South America's main distributing point of tidings from the outside world. I first took him to the office, and I had the felicity of signing his initial contract with him. He wrote it himself, in Spanish, which I didn't understand, but took his word for it, and he didn't slip a "joker" into the whole thing, as he could, as easily as not.

What do you know about that?—for a future diplomat.

After that I sent him the telegraph report, tickety-tick-tick by wire, across the pampas and the Andes, from Buenos Aires to

Living and Loving

BY MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

What Price Friendship? To what extent can married people be friendly with members of the other sex? It's an interesting question and involves a good deal more than would seem at first glance. A young woman puts the question to me and I'd like to hear from some of my readers on the subject.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I think your advice to other people is splendid, so I am sure you can help me. My problem is just like hundreds of others, but as yet I haven't found a satisfactory answer to it.

"I'm 20 years of age, considered good looking and am quite popular with both men and women.

"Now my problem is: A young married man, whom I have known for about two months, has been attracted to me and we both feel that we could be very good friends.

"He works in the same office I do, and naturally we are a great deal together during office hours.

"Do you think it would be very unconventional if I allowed him to take me to lunch, for a short drive during the noon hour, or home in the evening? He always treats me with respect and neither of us is in love with the other.

"He has a great many women acquaintances, but he has never had an 'affair' with any of them. He believes that a married man should have women friends.

"Why can't an unmarried girl have married men friends if they are only very good friends? Won't you advise me?"

me? "ONE WHO WOULD LIKE TO KNOW."

If the friendship concerned you two alone, it would be all right, my dear. The trouble is, so many people are involved. How does this man's wife feel about his various friendships with women? Is she big and understanding enough to accept them? You couldn't be happy in a friendship that was making another woman miserable, could you? How would you feel if he was your husband? And does he accord his wife the same liberty? If you can answer these questions satisfactorily there is no need to worry about gossiping tongues, for they don't matter so much, although they will wag. I have always maintained that married people needed friends of the opposite sex, but often the situation is misunderstood, more's the pity.

The controversy about "nice" boys and girls has another comment in the following:

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I agree perfectly with 'Heinie' and 'Eugene' that there are some nice young men left, the only trouble is that they are few and far between. Why, just a short time ago I had a friend that was a perfect gentleman, but nationality stood in the way, but it just goes to show that there is a nice boy for some nice girl. So cheer up, girls, and be happy. That is the spirit that wins the boys.

JOYOUS." You have the right idea, Joyous, only I think that the nice boys are not so "few and far between" as you seem to think.

I Have Said in My Heart

MAGNETISM In one of the late magazines there is an article which is particularly edifying. It is entitled "The Art of Being Kind."

In it the writer says the two great insistent cries of human nature are for sympathy and understanding.

This really sums all that wonderful and tangible quality we call "magnetism." You are forcibly drawn to the person who understands your needs and quickly responds to them, and the one who, through experience or intuition, broad understanding of humanity and a sincere sympathy in the lives and affairs of others is always famous for magnetic qualities.

It was not because of Cleopatra's physical beauty alone that she was able to ensnare not only the mighty Caesar, but Anthony as well. It was because she was able to understand the ambitions of both these men and sincerely sympathize with them.

Especially is this true of Anthony, whose love she kept longest. It was not the waning of Josephine's youth and physical charms so much as her absolute lack of sympathetic interest in Napoleon's schemes, except where they seemed to advance her own aggrandizement, which caused his desertion of her.

The other day Douglas Fairbanks was heard to say: "I think the reason why my wife, Mary Pickford, is such a success upon the screen is because of her great sympathy with everything that lives, and her understanding of every human emotion."

"That, I am sure, 'gets over' in pictures as well as in life in the end."

History teems with women who have held the love of their worlds until their demise at an advanced age, because of their sympathy and understanding, although one knows that there is a time when interest in the physical ceases.

Memo: One should make most, always, of this sympathy and understanding, if one wishes to make the most of life and get the most out of it.

Reserves Win Nineteenth; Beat Dayton All-Stars

DON CLARK PITCHES TWO-HIT VICTORY; DESERVED SHUT OUT

Superb Mound Work Gives Locals 8 To 4 Edge Sunday

Behind the excellent pitching of Don Clark, who allowed two hits, the Reserves pounded out eleven hits for eight runs to register their nineteenth victory of the season Sunday afternoon at Washington Park, defeating the Dayton All-Stars, a colored nine, 8 to 4.

Clark retired the visiting team in order for the first four innings and did not allow the semblance of a single until the eighth inning, when, with one down, Jackson singled. King's single in the ninth was the only other hit made by the colored aggregation.

Three of the four runs scored by Dayton were due to errors and a wild pitch.

Reserves hit safely in every inning but the first but nevertheless scored one run in the opening round, aided by two errors and a stolen base.

In the first inning, Simmons bled first on Jackson's error. H. Frank fled out but Simmons stole second. Conley grounded out and Simmons crossed the plate when Rice misjudged Shuey's tap.

Reserves added four more tallies in the second. Durnbaugh started things with a single but was forced at second by B. Frank. Frank stole second and Conley grounded out. Frank went to third. Clark was hit by a pitched ball and stole second. Both scored on King's error on Simmons' fly. Simmons went to second on the misplay and stole third. H. Frank walked and stole second and Conley cleared the bases with a single. Conley immediately stole second but Shuey fled out.

Local nine scored once in the fifth, sixth and seventh rounds. In the fifth Shuey singled. Tangeman struck out and Durnbaugh forced the runner at second. Durnbaugh stole second, from where he scored on a double by B. Frank.

Conley's single and Clark's two-base hit accounted for another run in the sixth and the final tally in the seventh was obtained under like circumstances. This time Tangeman singled and Weller doubled.

Two errors and a stolen base gave Dayton a run in the fifth. Simmons threw wildly to first after fielding Shoecraft's grounder, the batter then stealing second. He went to third as Simmons and Michael were being retired on infield rollers and scored when Simmons also made a wild heave on a roller by Jackson.

Dayton added two more runs in the eighth. Warner fanned but Jackson obtained his team's first hit of the game, a single. Perkins reached first and Jackson second when H. Frank turned in an error.

Both advanced a base on a wild pitch and scored on Weller's error after H. Shoecraft fled out.

In the ninth, King singled and went to second when Smith was hit by a pitched ball. King stole third unopposed. On the double steal, King scored while Smith was being trapped between first and second and eventually thrown out by Tangeman. The next two batters were easy.

Clark fanned eight batters and did not walk a man. Lester, starting Dayton pitcher, struck out two and walked one. He was knocked off the mound in the seventh and replaced by H. Shoecraft. Both teams made four errors in the field.

Reserves ran wild on the bases, stealing eight sacks, five thefts coming in one inning, the second. Dayton swiped three bases. B. Frank had sixteen putouts at first. Dayton had only one runner left on base.

The Reserve-Dayton game next Sunday has been cancelled by the Marcos. Dayton expects to play a return game with Brookville next Sunday and the local management is dickering with other teams in this locality for a contest.

The teams were evenly matched. Harding, Wilberforce star kicker, narrowly missed a place kick for a field goal from the forty-seven yard line in the third period, the ball hitting the cross bar and bouncing back.

Snell, a substitute halfback from Bellaire, O., in his freshman year, was Wilberforce's best bet for ground gaining. Captain Gallion, Bluefield linebacker, was a bulwark of strength on the line.

Bluefield is represented by an unusually strong team this year, defeating Howard University at Washington, D. C., a week ago, 19 to 6, and trouncing Knoxville College, Knoxville, Tenn., 33 to 0 in the only two games played prior to the Wilberforce contest.

Wilberforce will travel to Louisville, Ky., next Saturday for a game with Simmons University.

MOVIE THEATER IS DAMAGED BY BOMB

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 10.—The Logan picture theater at north Minneapolis was partly wrecked by a bomb early today. Considerable damage was done to the building but no one was injured.

This is the second bombing of moving picture houses since the strike of motion picture operators, stage hands, scenic artists, bill posters and musicians began here a month ago.

YELLOW JACKETS DEFEATED BY RIO GRANDE COLLEGE 13 TO 6

Cedarville College "Yellow-Jackets" lost their third football game this season by a margin of one touchdown when Rio Grande staged a comeback in the third quarter to score one touchdown and win 13 to 6 at Wellston Saturday afternoon.

Cedarville played fine football at times but was weak and clumsy when within striking distance of the goal line and had only itself to blame for loss of the game.

"Breaks" of the game also went against the Yellow-Jackets. Rio Grande scored its first touchdown in the first quarter in the first five minutes of play, as a result of a penalty and a poor punt.

Cedarville received the kick-off

and on the second play was penalized fifteen yards for holding, pushing the team back to its one-yard line. The visiting eleven got off a poor punt from behind its own goal line and Rio Grande took the ball on the twenty-yard mark.

Successful line plays resulted in a score. The try for extra point was successful.

After an exchange of kicks, Cedarville marched almost the entire length of the field for a touchdown in the second period. The extra point was not made.

The second half was a repetition of the first. Aided by a fifty-yard penalty, Rio Grande marched down the field for its second touchdown a few minutes after the third quarter got under way. Cedarville threatened to score several times but always lacked the punch.

Brown, Cedarville left tackle, was ordered from the game wear enraging in a fight with a Rio Grande player, who was also forced to retire. Brown was outstanding on the defense and another player by the same name, playing left tackle for Rio Grande, featured on the defense.

Adair, Cedarville quarterback, was a constant menace on the offense and turned in some nice gains. Punting of Jones, diminutive Rio Grande halfback, was extraordinary. The half-pint averaged almost sixty yards on his boots and was invaluable to his team at critical moments.

Cedarville will play Bluffton College at Bluffton Saturday, October 15. Bluffton won the 1926 game, 17 to 2 and defeated Capital University Saturday 18 to 0.

SCHOOL DRIVE TO START ON TUESDAY

Solicitors in the spirited drive for $1,000 to be used to feed and clothe underprivileged children of the city, under auspices of the Federated Parent-Teacher Association, will start out early Tuesday morning in the one-day drive for the amount.

Mrs. Charles A. Weaver, president of the Federated organization and chairman of the drive, is urging that solicitors keep the names of the people in their territory who they were unable to talk to, for future reference. Xenians are asked to be ready for the solicitors and respond generously to the fund.

ALL YOU NEED IS A NICKEL
And a Sure-enough Smoke Surprise is Yours
Man, put your hand in your pocket and locate one of those loose nickels! That's all it costs to treat your taste to the most smoke-pleasure 5c ever bought! A fresh, mellow Havana Ribbon cigar for 5c! News? You bet it's news! Maybe you've tried a lot of 5c cigars that were "said to be worth more." But here's one that sold at a higher price for years! And if it weren't for those same volume sales, the present price of 5c wouldn't be possible. Havana Ribbon is really a fine cigar in every sense of the word. Mellow-as-they-make-em! Made of ripe tobacco. Just friendly—full of joyous fragrance and satisfying body. Now—5c. But say—just try it. Walk into the nearest cigar store and say "Havana Ribbon." Lay down a nickel and light up there on the spot. Only a nickel—but it'll set your taste a-purring to pure contentment right from the first puff!

KOENIG COMES NEAR BEING SERIES HERO IN YANKEE SUCCESS
Mark Was "Goat" Of 1926—Miljus "Goat" Of This Year
NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Although the 1927 World Series failed to produce an outstanding hero, the best playing was done by Marcus Aurelius Koenig, shortstop of the Yankees. Mark's performance was especially noteworthy in that he was the official "goat" of the 1926 series.

Koenig led the regulars in batting with a juicy average of .500 and fielded perfectly. With him out of the lineup, the Huguenots never would have scuttled the Pirates in four straight games.

John Miljus, Pittsburgh pitcher, had a chance to become the hero of the classic when he fanned Gehrig and Meusel with the bases loaded in the ninth inning of the finale. But he let the winning run trickie across the plate on a wild pitch, and thus became the "goat" of the last game.

Herb Pennock pitched a three-hit game against the Pirates, but he also performed that stunt against the Cardinals last year. In the general excitement attending his feat this year, not one fan in ten recalled that fact.

Babe Ruth hit two homers, but that seems like a slump for the bambino when one remembers what he did against the Cardinals last year.

The real hero of the series was Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the Yankees. When the Yanks won on Saturday, erasing the golden prospect of a $200,000 Sunday game, the good Colonel led the applause.

Purchasers of tickets for the fifth game can get their money back by mailing the tickets to the Yankee offices here.

Babe Ruth's two homers gave him 426 for his entire career. His two homers gave him a total of ten homers for the series in which he has participated, breaking his own former record of eight. The bambino broke seven other World Series records. His complete series batting mark is now .275.

The Pirate regulars who fell down were Glenn Wright, who batted only .154, Joe Harris and Pie Traynor, who batted .200, and the catchers, who failed to get a hit between them. Meusel, with a horrible mark of .118, was the only Yankee weakling.

Urban Shocker and Ruth Reuther, two of New York's best pitchers, failed to get into the series. They, with their team mates, each will receive $5,702, however. Reuther also failed to get into the 1925 series when Washington played Pittsburgh.

The members of the Yankees were scattering to their homes today. Earl Combs was speeding to Kentucky to see for the first time a six-weeks' old baby daughter, born during the season. Meusel, Lazzari and Moore left for their homes in the west. Koenig, Shawkey and Bengough will go hunting, and Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig are scheduled for a barnstorming tour.

The Pirates are in Pittsburgh. How they felt about their crushing defeat was indicated in a report that Glenn Wright had been arrested on a charge of reckless driving.

John H. Slouffman, farmer, near Bellbrook, was adjudged guilty of possessing liquor. In a decision made known Friday by Probate Judge S. C. Wright. The farmer's trial was conducted several days and at its conclusion, the court reserved a decision.

Judge Wright deferred sentence for three days to allow counsel for Slouffman time to file a motion for a new trial.

Slouffman was accused of owning a quantity of home brew confiscated by Sheriff Ohmer Tate and deputies in a raid on a camping party on Slouffman's farm. The liquor tested a small percentage of alcohol.

Slouffman was not at home at the time of the raid and protested that he had no knowledge of the liquor.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters M.D.
Author of 'Diet and Health' and
'Diet for Children'

My Dear Followers:

When sending for material which we offer you, please remember to enclose a STAMPED, SELF-ADDRESSED envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must enclose TEN cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible. NOT OVER 200 WORDS, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible, if they are of general interest. Don't forget the STAMPED, SELF-ADDRESSED ENVELOPE if you expect me to send you the information I have offered. — Lulu Hunt Peters.

Answers to Correspondents

"Thanks to you, dear doctor, from 240 pounds I am now down to 200, and feel 101 per cent better in every way. I'm going to keep on until I get down to 130, as that is my normal weight. I'm a nurse, doing private work, and of course my rest is broken a great deal. It is wise to go on this dieting very strenuously. I'm very fond of tomato soup. I add three cans of water to one of the soup, and by taking a cup of this and a cracker every three or four hours, I feel no ill effects. I will lose five pounds in two days on this regime. How often is it safe to do this? Will you also let me know what is the food value of an average helping of liver, green peppers and Bent's water crackers?" M.

You can keep on your work, M., and diet enough to lose one or one-half or perhaps two pounds a week, without any but good effects. The more of that excess fat you get off, the easier your work will be. You'll also find that you won't notice the occasional lack of sleep so much.

The tomato is one of the aristocrats of the vegetables, being high in all of the vitamins, no matter in what form—canned, cooked or dried or fresh. So if you find it necessary to go on low calorie diets, say one day each week, that is all right to take. An average can of tomato soup weighs ten ounces and counts 150 C. If you add three cans of water, this mixture would make five cups of soup, averaging but thirty C. to the cup, provided you don't add any butter or fat or milk to it.

Bent's water crackers weigh about an ounce each and count 100 C. Doesn't seem possible, does it?—one-half cracker, 50 C. Green peppers four medium (about thirteen ounces) to the 100 C. Liver, a piece 3x3x½ broiled, or fried in mineral oil (no calories), weight about 2 ¼ ounces, is 100 C. (If you use fat for frying, you have to count it extra.)

The pamphlet on reducing can be obtained by sending ten cents in stamps and a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope with request.

Deficiency Diseases

MRS. C.—By the term "deficiency disease" is meant a disease that is caused by a diet lacking in sufficient of the elements necessary for proper functioning. Rickets, for instance, is a deficiency disease, caused by lack of calcium, phosphorus and the vitamin D (the antirachitic vitamin) and lack of sunlight. (The foods highest in vitamin D are cod liver oil and egg yolks.) Scurvy is caused by lack of the vitamin C (the anti-scorbutic vitamin) (highest in the fruits, especially the citrus fruits, and cabbage and tomatoes). Pellagra may be caused by a deficiency of vitamins or a deficiency of the complete protein (meat element in food). Tuberculosis is now believed to flourish best when there has been a lack of the vitamin A (highest in cod liver oil, milk, cream, butter, eggs, greens).

It must be remembered, however, that one could have sufficient of all the elements, but in wrong proportions so that (perhaps with other factors) indigestion and diarrhea or constipation might result, and the elements would not be absorbed; therefore the word deficiency disease will have to be extended.

Another point to be remembered is that there may be a relative deficiency. Those who eat too much concentrated fats and sweets and are notably overweight, may have a relative insufficiency of the necessary elements.

We have an article on Balanced Diet which goes into the question more fully. Send only a self-addressed, stamped envelope with request.

AUTOS COLLIDE

Occupants escaped injury but both cars were damaged when a coupe occupied by two unidentified Dayton girls collided with a sedan driven by D. Nelson James, this city, at the west entrance of the bridge spanning Beaver creek, on the Dayton-Xenia Pike near Alpha, Friday night. James is president and manager of the Xenia Hog-Maker Feeder Co.

John looked at his host closely. "What the devil are you trying to do?" he asked. "Of course the shots were mine. None of you gave a sign of life at my call, so I shot into the air. If you are trying to insinuate that the shots were for Clench—take a look at that knife."

As he spoke he glanced quickly at the other two men. They had taken his advice and were staring at the knife handle below Clench's left shoulder blade. Manuel's face was distorted and livid; Rodriguez appeared to be sunk in a stupid, morose apathy. There was no longer any bravado about him; that had withered away at the touch of the same whip that had lashed Manuel—fear.

Had they murdered Clench and grown fearful of their deed so soon? It seemed so to John. Surely, he thought, Henshaw must see it too.

His scrutinizing gaze flicked back to Henshaw to discover the latter's eyes fixed upon the coat pocket in which John's right hand and automatic were hidden.

"Mr. Henshaw," began John, impatiently. Henshaw looked up. "You go armed?" he asked mildly. "And fully dressed—at this hour of night?"

"I had not gone to bed," said John. "If you will concentrate your attention for a moment on—"

"You had not gone to bed?" interrupted Henshaw. "And yet you told us, Mr. Moore, that you did not hear Clench fall. How do you explain the two statements?"

"I was not in my room. But—"

"Just a moment, Mr. Moore. If you were not in your room at this time of night, where were you?"

"In the garden," said John. That subtle sensation of evil vibrated more strongly along some sixth sense to his brain.

"In the garden," Henshaw echoed. "And what were you doing in the garden?"

John looked from one staring face to the other. "I was watching the rest of you!" he said coolly. There was a silence. Was it imagination that Rodriguez's lamp had dipped? Or that Manuel had crooked his arm backward toward his hip pocket and then, upon a glance from Henshaw, had dropped it again? It might be imagination, but John Moore was taking no chances.

Deliberately he slipped his left hand into his left coat pocket and moved the gun forward until it bulged out the cloth. The three men were staring at his face as he did so and their eyes did not move, but they knew and he knew they knew that he had two guns trained on them. He reflected grimly that the time seemed to have arrived when his Fort Sill tricks of fancy shooting might be extremely practical. It was a matter of cold satisfaction to him, now, to know that by means of them he dominated this situation. He was an expert marksman and he could shoot nearly as well with his left hand as with his right.

The flames of the lamps wavered, and flared in the cold night wind that came gusting along the corridor. For a long moment the silence held.

Then, into it, trickled gently Mr. Henshaw's voice, plaintive and querulous. "And what did you discover, Mr. Moore?"

"Well, I saw Manuel sneak down to you, Mr. Henshaw."

Mr. Henshaw blinked. "Ah, yes, Manuel—" he said vaguely, as if any act of Manuel's were of little importance. "But you—what were you in the garden—for?"

"I have told you," said John. "Watching the rest of you."

"That won't do. You met Clench—that's what you were there for!" Henshaw's words rapped out like the spat of an automatic. Rodriguez drew closer to Henshaw and Manuel stepped close to Rodriguez.

"By Jove!" thought John. "They don't care who killed Clench. What they're after is—how much Clench talked!"

"Well?" demanded Henshaw. In that instant John Moore plotted his course. (To be continued)

The Theater

A murder trial, a comedy with risqué situations, a play with an ex-gangster as the hero, another laid in New Orleans 1850, and a revival of Gilbert and Sullivan's Mikado included in the leading theatrical efforts attracting Gotham these days.

The National Theater has been transformed into the Supreme Court where "The Trial of Mary Dugan" is taking place. Ann Harding makes a beautiful Mary Dugan.

Marian Nixon, movie queen, shows her new fall felt hat. It has the suggestion of a football helmet, but no gridiron star looked a tenth so nice in makeup as Marian does in her new chapeau.

and Rex Cherryman as her brother-defender is giving a moving performance to the pleasure of the most sophisticated reviewers.

At the Longacre Theater, "The Command to Love," by Rudolph Lothar and Fritz Gottwald, adapted by Herman Bernstein and Brian Marlow, is the comedy with the shady parts. Basil Rathbone, who will be remembered for his part in "The Captive," has the part of an attaché of the French legation in Madrid, chosen for the job because of his reputation for amorous prowess, and his subsequent affair with the wife of his chief. Miss Mary Nash is the seductive and seduced wife of the Minister of War.

A HEART-BREAKING TALE. HOBOKEN, N. Y.—Just as the Olympic was pulling away from her dock recently, a man whose name is in the Social Register rushed up to the baggage master crying: "Where is my champagne?" It developed he had, after a telephone conversation, arranged to pay in advance for the rare wine which he was to find on board the ship. He had paid hundreds of dollars for the stuff. And some bootlegger put a few more hundreds in the bank.

WIFE IS AWARDED DIVORCE; ENTRIES DISMISS ACTIONS

Mabel Clowney has been granted a divorce from John Clowney in Common Pleas Court on grounds of gross neglect of duty. They were married at Xenia September 5, 1918, and have one child, Robert William, 7, ward of juvenile court.

Henrietta Fillmore has been awarded a divorce from Elsworth G. Fillmore on a charge of wilful absence from home for more than three years. The couple was married at Springfield, O., July 26, 1913, and no children were born of the union.

AUTHORIZE RECOVERY

In the case of Prudence Watson against Frank Wilson in Common Pleas Court, a jury having heretofore awarded the plaintiff $200 damages, the court ordered her to recover this amount, inasmuch as no motion for a new trial was filed within the required time.

DISMISS CASES

Entries dismissing the following cases have been filed in Common Pleas Court:

The American Vitified Products Co. against The United States Fidelity and Guaranty Co., settled, John T. Harbine, Jr., against Alfred E. and Sylvia Hubbard.

RECOVERY UNPAID, CHARGED

Recovery of $195, alleged due for clothing sold and delivered to the defendant, has been filed in Common Pleas Court by Frank J. Van Alstine, prominent Cincinnati tailor, against George Bocklett, this city.

Plaintiff charges the following articles were purchased and remain unpaid: One suit, $70; one top coat, $60; one sport coat, $45; and one pair of trousers, $20. Miller and Finney are attorneys for the plaintiff.

WANTS PARTITION

Partition of real estate is sought in a suit filed in Common Pleas Court by J. A. Ellison against Ella and Edith Ellison, who are tenants in common with the plaintiff on the property.

Plaintiff claims he possesses one-fourth interest in the land; that Ella Ellison is entitled to a one-fourth share; and that Edith Ellison owns one-half of the property as widow and heir of Roy S. Ellison, deceased. All debts and claims against the estate have been paid, according to the petition. George H. Smith is plaintiff's attorney.

HEARING SET

Exceptions made to the first account recently filed by Thomas Cook, as trustee under the will of Ella Cook, deceased, have been set for a hearing Thursday, October 13 at 9 a. m. in Probate Court.

The World And All BY CHARLES B. DRISCOLL MY TOWNS—TOPEKA

Topeka is the capital of Kansas. Its history is the history of Kansas, and there are few states that have a more fascinating history, as far as it goes.

Kansas is still a very young state. Topeka was one of the early "free-state" settlements, and it was not begun until 1854. That's a young city, even for the United States.

But Kansas and Topeka was born in strife and bloodshed. The institution of black slavery was on trial. The southern states, where there was much hoeing in the hot sun to be done, liked it and wanted it as the basis and foundation of a culture that was just beginning to bud in Virginia and Georgia.

The northern states, particularly those of New England, had no use for black slavery. The institution simply didn't fit into a northern civilization. The controversy was growing bitter.

A new state was to be admitted soon—Kansas. Should it be a slave-holding state, or should its constitution forbid slavery?

The climate of Kansas is neither that of the Old South nor that of the North. Most of the state has extremely hot summers, without very much rainfall. One could use black slaves to considerable advantage in Kansas during the summer, said the pro-slavery folk. This should be a slave-holding state.

So the crusaders from Massachusetts and Connecticut poured out toward Kansas, to settle up that land with free-soil folk, so that the new state might vote slavery out of its own constitution and also hold the balance of power in congress for free soil.

They fought it out in "Bleeding Kansas," and the free-soil folk won. But the battle was not won until the Kansas conflict had spread over the nation and black slavery was abolished throughout the nation.

That's how Topeka happened to be born. Topeka has seen hot and bloody days. But you would not think so, to look at Topeka now. Peaceful, prosperous, dignified. Wide streets, wide lawns, comfortable houses, and the conventional state house dominating all with its regulation statehouse dome.

Topeka is a good, going town today. And it has its memories. Adv.

THE OLD HOME TOWN

Who's Who in Timely Views

Need for More Zeppelins Seen
By MORRIS SHEPPARD

(Morris Sheppard was born at Wheatonville, Tex., in 1875. He was graduated from the University of Texas in 1895, receiving his law degree from that institution two years later. Sheppard began to practice law in 1899. In 1902 he was elected to Congress to fill the unexpired term of his father. He served in the lower House until 1913, and has been a senator since that time.)

No other aspect of the flight of Colonel Lindbergh across the Atlantic has deeper interest than that relating to the peace of earth. To say that universal peace is most to be desired of all the ends of progress is but to express one of the oldest and most familiar aspirations of humanity.

The most serious challenge to Christianity and to all the world today is for the earliest possible adoption of some system which will substitute reason for force in the settlement of international differences. Our civilization may be hopelessly impaired by another general conflict. Two conditions sustain these gloomy conjectures. The first relates to the horrors of modern warfare. Machine power and chemicals which have brought so many blessings in eras of peace may be utilized for unspeakable destruction, terror, mutilation in periods of war.

Even the airplane, so useful and so promising in commercial lines, may become perhaps the deadliest instrument of battle. Marshal Foch has stated that one of the great factors in the next war will be aircraft and that the potentialities of aircraft attack are almost beyond measure.

The best resistance to aircraft is found only in the construction of larger and more efficient aircraft. If the recent failure of so many airplanes to cross the sea under their own power be cited as an argument against any serious danger to us from an assault by other nations, let it be remembered that airships of the Zeppelin type are able to carry planes, and that these airships have already made a number of successful trans-oceanic trips.

Sea vessels for the carriage of planes, known as airplane carriers, are now in the navies of all the world.

IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE SALTS

Says Backache Often Means
You Have Not Been Drinking Enough Water

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it may mean you have been eating foods which create acids, says a well-known authority. An excess of such acid overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels, removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells, your stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. She urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the system, so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

BATLIN MURDER MAY EARN EARLY TRIAL

REIDSVILLE, N. C., Oct. 10.—While wheels of justice may turn for 20-year-old Mrs. Alma Petty Gatlin, bride of a few months and alleged patricide, even before the next term of Rockingham Superior Court in January.

A conference between County Solicitor Allen H. Gwyn, District Solicitor S. Porter Graves and defense counsel in the near future will probably determine whether or not a special term of court will be requested.

Solicitor Gwyn, who directed the long investigation which led to the finding of the axe-headed body of Smith T. Petty and his daughter's arrest for the crime, admitted to-day that there was a strong probability that the prosecution would seek an extra term in which to dispose of the Gatlin case.

WASP CAUSES GREAT DISTURBANCE

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y. — While driving near Middletown, N. Y., a wasp bit Walter Cook of Bethlehem, Pa., on his ankle and he lost control of his car just as he was approaching a bridge over a railroad track. The car leaped fifty feet below but Cook and his family escaped without a scratch. Then just as they climbed out of their car—which was not damaged much—they heard a whistle and a moment later a train plowed through the automobile.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. HUGE CROWDS GREET EVANGELIST; HEAR CLOSING SERVICES

The meetings were not saved and answered the question with these reasons. First, "They loved some sin better than God." Second "They held to some unbelief and would not give in to faith." Third—"The lure and attractions of the world, with money, and power and pleasure." Fourth—"They think there is plenty of time." The speaker emphasized the fact that now is the time. He said:

"There are three seasons to my text—in relationship to these meetings, when your soul may be forced to adopt the words of my text 'The harvest is past, the summer is ended and I am not saved.' These seasons were—First—the season of death. Second—the season of final refusal, when you refuse God's mercy for the last time. 'There is a line by us unseen, It crosses every path; The hidden boundary between God's patience and His wrath.'

"To pass that limit is to die. To die as if by stealth; It does not quench the beaming eye.

Not pale the glow of health. 'Do not pass this unseen line,' he pleaded.

"The third season of the text—'The harvest is past, the summer is ended and we are not saved,' is the season of procrastination, when you let your chance to be saved by Christ, go unheeded." The evangelist closed with some pages out of his memory of the other campaign he conducted in Xenia, when men refused, then, to accept Christ and some of them are still outside of the kingdom of God.

Three well attended services marked the closing Sunday meetings with a union morning worship at 10:45 a. m., a men's meeting at 2:30 p. m. and a closing service at 7:30 p. m. when the large church building was crowded.

At the morning service the Rev. D. A. Sellers led in prayer. The Rev. J. P. Lytle led the responsive reading. Dr. W. N. Shank asked for a large appreciation in the offering for Dr. Biederwolf. The quartet of The First M. E. Church sang a beautiful number "O Love That Will Not Let Me Go." Harry Seifert, Walter Currie, Roy Spahr and Bayless Thompson, composed the quartet.

Dr. Biederwolf used an unusual method of preaching. He had ten forward steps printed on a special card and followed each step with some forward step. These cards were placed upon the platform. Practically every one present took some forward step. These cards were turned over to the pastors of the churches for reference.

At the men's meeting in the afternoon, a male chorus sang a number. J. Milton Kelly, who closed his service at this meeting, sang "Who Could it Be, But Jesus". Judge J. Carl Marshall made an appeal to the men to "thank" Dr. Biederwolf for his services substantially. A quartet, Carl Ervin, Glen Reed, Thomas McClelland and Herman Eavey, sang a special number.

Dr. W. E. Biederwolf took off his coat and preached to the men, using for his text "Genesis 25:33—'Price of a Man'." He proceeded to show how small some men thought themselves, how cheap they were, considering the price they placed upon themselves. A large group of the men present took steps in recommitment. The Rev. L. A. Washburn, led in prayer. Dr. H. B. McElree prayed in closing the service.

At the evening service Mr. Lucas, student at Wilberforce University, sang a tenor solo, "Arise". Dr. H. B. McElree opened the service with prayer. Miss Theda Downing gave a special opening organ recital.

The Rev. Wm. H. Tilford, president of the Ministerial Association, listed a number of "folks who deserved thanks" for the success of the meeting. Every one who had helped in any special way was given hearty bursts of "appreciation applause". Dr. Biederwolf and Messrs. Grimes and Kelly, the singers, personal workers, the choir and the musicians, the women in charge of the prayer meetings, the First M. E. Church, Wm. Fraver, treasurer; O. E. Bradute, executive chairman; the city authorities for the use of the street, with police protection, those who took care of Dr. Biederwolf, and Mr. Grimes, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Eavey, Mrs. Jeanette Anderson; Ed. Lang for the use of his truck, B. H. Slagle, for eleven large signs for the churches. The Evening Gazette, for the many courtesies extended during the meetings as the best medium for getting the news of the service to the people, were each thanked.

The Rev. Mr. Grimes, as it was his last night, thanked the choir and all who had helped him. When Dr. Biederwolf came to the platform he added his word of appreciation. The Rev. Mr. Grimes closed the meeting with prayer.

The closing meeting of the Biederwolf meetings will be Monday evening at the First M. E. Church, when Dr. Biederwolf will speak on his trip around the world "Evangelistic Travelogue".

Doctor Found What is Best for Thin, Constipated People

As a family doctor at Monticello, Illinois, the whole human body, not any small part of it, was Dr. Caldwell's practice. More than half his "calls" were on women, children and babies. They are the ones most often sick. But their illnesses were usually of a minor nature—colds, fevers, headaches, biliousness—and all of them required first a thorough evacuation. They were constipated.

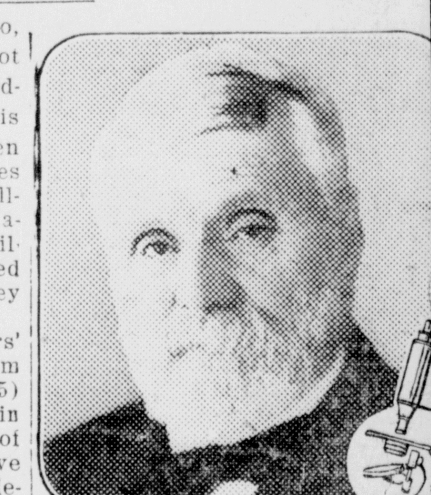

In the course of his 47 years' practice (he was graduated from Rush Medical College back in 1875) he found a good deal of success in such cases with a prescription of his own containing simple laxative herbs with psyllin. In 1892 he decided to use this formula in the manufacture of a medicine to be known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and in that year his prescription was first placed on the market.

The preparation immediately had as great a success in the drug stores as it previously had in his private practice. Now, the third generation is using it. Mothers are giving it to their children who were given it by their mothers. Every second of the working day someone is going into a drug store to buy it. Millions of bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin are being used a year.

Its great success is based on merit, on repeated buying, on one satisfied user telling another. There are thousands of homes in

LEAVE ON SOUTHERN ROUTE WITH BUENOS AIRES FLIGHT GOAL

Aviators Will Stop At Senegal On Way To Brazil

PARIS, Oct. 10.—Di-donne Costes and Lieutenant Le Brix, the two French aviators who had intended to fly to New York, took off from Le Bourget field at 9:49 a. m. today for St. Louis, Senegal, on the first leg of their flight to Buenos Aires, Argentina.

The take off of their plane, the "Nungesser-Coli" was perfect.

Before taking off, Costes tried out his motors for three minutes.

Then he shot down the field and headed south toward Africa. The hop to St. Louis is 4,300 kilometres. After remaining there overnight, the aviators expect to take off across the south Atlantic to Pernambuco, Brazil, a distance of 3,200 kilometres. A third hop of 2,000 kilometres will bring them to Rio de Janeiro, and then they will fly the remaining 1,870 kilometres to Buenos Aires.

The take-off was attended by several distinguished persons, including the Argentine Ambassador Alvarez De Toledo and many members of the Latin-American colony in Paris. The two aviators, however, helders of the plane, were also present.

The two aviators arrived on the field at six o'clock and immediately began superintending the loading of their plane, which was stocked with 2,800 litres of gasoline and 240 litres of oil. The plane is also carrying 1,200 pounds of merchandise including perfumes, lace, letters, and Paris morning papers.

HUGE CROWDS GREET EVANGELIST; HEAR CLOSING SERVICES

Dr. Biedewolf Ends Revival Program Monday Night

"If you can prove to me that Jesus Christ is not the son of God and that there is no hell, and all the rest of it as conclusively as you want me to prove the contrary to you, I'll shut my mouth forever on the subject. But unless you are dead sure that He was not divine and there is no hell, you are a big fool for knifing religion as long as there is one single good reason on the other side." These were the remarks in part of Dr. W. E. Biedewolf at First M. E. Church Sunday night.

"I'm a happier man than you are anyhow. If religion is a dream, for God's sake don't wake me up; I'm enjoying it too much. And if it isn't a dream I'll be fixed for the next world as you are anyhow. You say 'There may be hell.' I say to you 'There's a possibility.' Well then, why don't you have some sense and be prepared for the possibility? They don't expect the ship to sink. It may sink, so they put on life boats. They prepare for the possibility."

He took as the text Jeremiah 8th chapter and 20th verse. "The harvest is past, the summer is ended, and we are not saved." The evangelist applied that text to the assembled company in connection with the present meetings which close Monday night.

He asked why some had attended.

THEATER STRIKE IS FACING COLUMBUS

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 10.—Columbus' two principal vaudeville theaters, Keith's and Loew's, today were operating with non-union orchestras, brought here from New York City Sunday, following the failure of negotiations with union musicians for a new wage contract. The musicians' union officials declared that stage hands, electricians and other affiliated crafts in these and other theaters here controlled by the same management, probably will be called out within two weeks.

REPORT 10,000 CASUALTIES AMONG SHANSI TROOPS AFTER FIGHTING ALONG RAIL FRONT

PEKING, Oct. 10.—A steady stream of wounded soldiers flowed into Peking today from the Hankow railway front, where 10,000 Shansi troops are reported to have been killed, wounded or captured in the present offensive of Marshal Chang Tso Lin's army.

Holiday crowds watched the arrival of the wounded soldiers as they were carried from railway trains.

Gen. Chang Hsueh Liang telegraphed to Marshal Chang that he is continuing his advance towards Chichiaichang, where he plans to occupy in three days.

PEKING, Oct. 10.—Ten thousand Shansi troops have been killed, wounded and captured during the initial drive of the Chang-Tso-Lin forces southward to the Hankow railway, according to a telegram which reached here today from Chang's headquarters.

Chang's headquarters also reported that careful preparations have been made for an offensive today towards Kalgan with a simultaneous drive from the north, aided by Shansi Malcontents, towards Tating on the western end of the Peking-Suiyuan railway.

According to Peking intelligence officers, prisoners taken during Chang's drive claim that Peng-Yu Shiang had failed to send troops to support the Shansi forces, thereby leaving it to them to bear the full brunt of Chang's offensive.

Chang is reported to have offered $50,000 reward to the troops capturing Shih-Chieh-Wang, the Shansi's eastern railway terminus.

URGES GOVERNMENT CONTROL OF POWER; INVESTIGATION DUE

Insurgent Predicts Legislatures Will Take Action

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Government control of the $10,000,000,000 light and power industry, through legislation and federal example, will be made a major issue at the coming session of congress and carried into the 1928 presidential campaign, Senator George W. Norris (R) of Neb., insurgent leader of the senate predicted here today.

The proposed Walsh investigation of the power industry, action on the Boulder Dam bill and disposition of the $100,000,000 Muscle Shoals project will bring the issue before congress, Norris said. The Walsh inquiry will reveal such an exploitation of the American public by the power industry, Norris declared, that either congress or the states will be forced to enact remedial legislation.

"The Walsh investigation will arouse the people and force state legislatures or congress to further safeguard their rights," said Norris. "There will be some federal legislation but it will depend on how quickly and how far the state legislatures correct existing conditions after the people are informed."

Government operation of Muscle Shoals as a power project and government supervision of Boulder Dam as a power project, Norris said, would quickly demonstrate to the people "how they have been mucked and gouged by the power industry."

To prevent this revelation, Norris maintained, has caused the power industry to oppose government ownership of either project on the ground it would "place the government in business."

"The Walsh investigation will show how the so-called power trust—take the Insull interests for example—go into a town and buy the municipally operated power plant at double its value," Norris declared. "Say a plant is worth $50,000, the Insulls will buy it for $100,000. Then, the Insull concern gets the state commission to fix rates which will pay an eight per cent return upon the $100,000 investment. The people are gouged, not because the state commissions are dishonest, but because the commissions either are fooled by the power trust or else the local laws are inadequate to protect the people from the inflated values."

"This has been going on all over the nation and it is a question of only a short time before the power trust will have complete control over the production and distribution of electricity all over the United States. This will give a few men an absolute monopoly over a necessity of life as in modern life, electricity has become a necessity in every home. In the future, its needs will grow and it will become as much a necessity as water or bread. When such a necessity is controlled by private monopoly, living conditions will be intolerable and a free people will not submit to them."

FIREMEN BRING STUDENT TO LIFE

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 10.—William C. Stillwell, 23, a co-operative student at Cincinnati University, today was recovering in Jewish hospital here, after he was literally brought back from the dead Sunday by Cincinnati firemen. Stillwell, at work in a power station, came in contact with a high-tension wire, and a fire department life-saving crew found him lifeless, with his heart stopped, when they arrived. They applied first aid methods, pulmotors and counter shocks. They restored heart activity, after an hour's hard work.

SEARCH GOLF LINKS FOR YOUTH MISSING WEEK; BELIEVED DEAD

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—Authorities today sought throughout the vicinity of the Skokie and Bob-O-Link country clubs for the body of little Teddy Franks, 15, a caddy and school boy, missing from his home here a week, and believed to have been slain.

Several witnesses have informed officers that probably Teddy was murdered because of an argument with another caddy. A clay hole will be dragged at the edge of a golf link.

cate that Teddy might have been murdered. One rival caddy, known among his companions as Gumbo, is said to have made threats against the missing lad. Gumbo was quoted as telling the Frank lad to keep away and to have said: "You stay away from here from now on, or they'll find you in one of these ponds."

The boy Frank was liked by women members of the two clubs. They would ask for him and the caddies said young Frank would get big tips. The tips are said to have aroused jealousy in the other boys.

MEXICAN LABOR AND LEADERS SIGN PACT FAVORING OREGON

Convention Learns Labor Battalions To Replace Army

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 10.—Understanding of a tacit agreement among the leaders of Mexico that General Alvaro Obregon should return to the presidency in 1928 and unfulfilled promises for the establishment in the southern republic of a proletarian army composed of labor battalions, are among startling revelations in a report to the American Federation of Labor convention made today by its executive council.

The report, submitted by President William Green, represents the results of an exhaustive investigation by the A. F. of L. executive council into the alleged relationship between the Mexican Federation of Labor and the Mexican government.

Tracing revolutionary events in the southern republic, the report recites the overthrow of the Carranza government in May 1920 and the subsequent naming of Adolfo de La Huerta as provisional president. In the election immediately following Obregon was elected president to fill the next constitutional term that began Dec. 1, 1920.

"It is said that an understanding was reached that General Plutarco E. Calles should succeed Obregon as president, and that Obregon should return to that office in general executive council reports. 'De La Huerta is said to have developed an unexpected popularity while Calles was unpopular with the army, without which the chances of success were negligible.'"

"De La Huerta started a rebellion against Obregon," the report continues. "This rebellion was opposed by General Calles, who espoused and most enthusiastically advocated the cause of the Aguirre. He likewise cultivated the friendly and sympathetic attitude of the Mexican Federation of Labor. Because of the support of Obregon, who had the backing of the majority of the army and the Mexican Federation of Labor, General Calles was elected president to succeed Obregon."

"While the majority of the army voted for Calles in his election, it is said that during his visit abroad, a deputation of army officers called on Obregon and declared they would not allow Calles to take the president's chair."

"In the meantime, Luis Morones, secretary of the Mexican Federation of Labor, was shot and wounded during a session of the chamber of deputies by ex-Governor Jose M. Sanchez. It is stated that Obregon has great difficulty in persuading the general of the army to support Calles. They hated him, and Calles was said to have been suspicious of them, fearing they would later turn against him. It is said that because of this fear of the army generals that Calles, two days before he was inaugurated as president of Mexico entered into an agreement with Luis Morones."

AVIATOR SWIMS TO SAFETY AS PLANE FALLS IN MISSISSIPPI

NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. 10.—While circling about the airport here in welcome to Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, who was returning from the Pensacola naval station, Lieutenant Commander Davis of Pensacola, crashed into the Mississippi river early this morning and was forced to swim to safety. His plane was wrecked but Davis was unhurt.

Colonel Lindbergh spent forty minutes cruising the country near the landing field in the Spirit of

THINK PLOTTER WAS AMONG VICTIMS OF NEW YORK OUTRAGE

Revenge Or Accident Theory Of Police Probing Blast

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Belief that one of the perpetrators of the bombing of a tenement house here Saturday, when five persons were killed, lost his own life in the blast, was expressed today by investigating detectives.

One of the bodies, mangled beyond recognition, is believed by the authorities to be that of an Italian who, with an accomplice who escaped, is suspected of being the manufacturer of the deadly bomb.

A thorough investigation of the ruins by a squad of picketed detectives has led to two theories. One is that the bombing was accidental, the infernal machine exploding while in process of completion, killing its maker and four innocent residents of the house. Another is that the bomb was planted in revenge against Andrew Coviello, a barber and owner of the tenement, and that the device was so cleverly wired that it was detonated when Mrs. Theresa Coviello, wife of the owner, switched on the lights in her parlor.

There is evidence to bear out either of these theories, but a more exhaustive investigation will be made in an effort to determine definitely the cause.

Meanwhile, a city-wide manhunt was being pushed for the other Italian suspect. Police believe he may be implicated in the bombing of two subway stations during the Sacco-Vanzetti disorders last August. An unexploded bomb, believed similar to that which wrecked the tenement, was found in the ruins, and comparison showed it was identical with an infernal machine which was found on the tracks of the I. R. T. subway, in the tunnel beneath the East river, a short time before the two stations were partially wrecked by blasts.

The similarity between the two bombs led police to believe that the two Italians, who had rooms in the tenement and who are suspected of the bomb manufacture, may have been the perpetrators of the other outrages. The two suspects rented the apartment in constant fear of her life. "He has threatened her life in the past two and a half years in constant fear of her life. "Remus tells of Imogene looting his home in Cincinnati. It's ridiculous. We have cancelled checks showing that my sister bought every piece of furniture, paintings, books and what not in that house. That home was not cleaned out because Remus feared vandals would clean it out while he was locked up in Atlanta. Every piece of furniture that was in the house is in storage in Cincinnati."

In addition, on their wedding day, Remus gave my sister the deed to the 'dream palace'. There are plenty of witnesses to that. Why should he now try to claim that home as his? He gave it to her."

"Remus made Imogene mortgage the home after threats of death to Blanch Watson, of Covington, for $35,000. This money was used in part to buy Jack Daniels distillery at St. Louis. This same distillery Remus and his cohorts milked of 3,000 barrels of booze. Remus was later indicted for this and the best evidence that he is wrong is that he turned evidence on thirty-two of his pals to save himself. To show his gratitude to his wife he also included her among the gang. The courts, however, freed her and threw her case out of court."

Here Brown went on to talk of Mrs. Remus' visits to the federal penitentiary in Atlanta, Ga., while Remus was serving his sentence there, and of the attentions he claims she showered upon her husband.

"She bought bed, mattresses and blankets and even became the official cook for the prisoner," said Brown, "just because she wanted

BROTHER OF SLAIN WOMAN SAYS REMUS URGED DODGE FRIENDSHIP

Defends Mrs. Remus From Attacks Of Slayer-Husband—Says "Stolen" Furniture Stored In Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 10.—"George Remus introduced my sister Imogene Remus to Franklin Dodge and told her to cultivate him regardless of what embarrassment it may cause her in the future," charged Harry Brown, brother of Mrs. Remus, this morning.

"I have in my possession letters in Remus' own handwriting instructing her to play up to him because he was the last chance to help him get out of jail. These letters will be turned over to County Prosecutor Charles P. Taft to assist him in the prosecution of George Remus."

"Regardless of what statements George Remus gives to the public," added Harry Brown, "they will be nothing but a mess of lies unless he tells of his true relations with my sister."

"This is the last statement the members of her family will issue. We would not be making this one but for the fact that Remus continues to sit in his cell and boast of his deed."

REBELS RECRUITED ON AMERICAN SIDE WILL ATTACK CITY

Yaqui Tribesmen, Deprived Of Lands, Take To Arms

NUEVO LAREDO, Mexico, Oct. 10.—This important rail center on the Rio Grande River today became the new vortex in the military activities of the present political revolution in Mexico.

Three separate columns of rebel troops, reported to have been recruited on the American side, are planning to attack this city within the next thirty-six hours, according to word received by the Mexican consul at Laredo, Texas.

Support to the reports of the impending attack came late last night when it was learned that General Enrique Torres, staunch Calles supporter and one of the most prominent generals in the Mexican army, took over command of the federal garrison here. He replaces General Gonzales, considered an anti-Calles sympathizer.

This city, with Juarez, is one of the most strategic border cities and frequently changed hands in revolutions of the past. In possession of Nuevo Laredo, the revolutionists would be in control of the most important point of entry from the United States, thus cutting off an immediate campaign against General Gonzales, the former commander of the garrison, attended a meeting of the revolutionary junta held at Laredo, Texas, last night.

It is reported that he will lead one of the columns against Nuevo Laredo. Trucks loaded with arms and munitions were reported to have been sent to the border from San Antonio.

NOGALES, Ariz., Oct. 10.—Ten thousand Yaqui Indian tribesmen scattered throughout Sonora held the spotlight in the Mexican revolution today, with the events following the killing of Alfonso de La Huerta, rebel leader, tentatively obscuring the future plan of Mexican federal forces.

General Pablo Macias, Sonora division commander, with his aides has Sonora federal forces ready for an immediate campaign against "subsequent outbreaks."

"We await advice here before proceeding, but are confident that the Yaqui difficulty has been disposed of," Macias said. "The surrender of Chief Luis Matuz with four hundred Yaquis and self is significant."

American mining men returning from southern Sonora, however, expressed doubt concerning the reported surrender, explaining the move was probably one to disrupt the concentration of Indian masses.

"The Yaquis, embittered by the move to deprive them of their lands, homes and cattle, have been nomadic pillagers and only want leaders to transform them into formidable fighting men," said Augustine Burnside, Hollywood mining man who recently returned here from Mexico.

Burnside asserted that many Americans are quitting central and southern Mexico because of conditions there. He said the situation here declared that one's life was in continual danger with bandit bands roaming the country almost uncontrolled, and now, he declared, the Yaqui situation enhances this danger.

AKRON NEWSPAPER OCCUPIES NEW HOME

AKRON, Ohio, Oct. 10.—The Akron Beacon Journal, published by former Congressman C. L. Knight, will begin publication today from its new million dollar plant here.

The new structure was dedicated at 9:40 a. m. setting in motion the new press. The new structure marks eighty-eight years of publishing of the newspaper in this city. It is one of the most modern plants in any city of Akron's size in the country.

WOMAN AND CHILD VICTIMS OF ATTACK

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, Oct. 10.—Mrs. Andrew Serious condition at Youngstown Hospital and her infant son was dead as the result of a mysterious attack at her home yesterday.

The marauder entered the house, attacked and beat Mrs. Ballog, and killed the child with a club. Ballog, a musician, is well known in the city.

SOLON ATTACKED

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 10.—Denny Cross, Columbus, a member of the last legislature today was recovering from a beating administered by four thugs who stopped him on the street here, calling his name, and offered to take him home. They robbed him of $20 and threw him out of the car. Cross reported to police.

G. DIVORCE INDICATES

XENIA, Oct. 10.—Despite rapidly increasing divorce and the general instability of matrimonial bonds, marriages still outnumber the legal separations by the rate of more than ten to one, according to the United States Bureau of the Census.

A careful analysis of marriage records disclosed in proportion to population the greatest number of marriages in 1925 was in the west south central states of Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Oklahoma and Texas.

The south Atlantic group also is made up of states of many marriages with a rate of more than eleven to the 1,000 population. In this section the individual state record for marriages in 1925 was shattered by Florida where 21.6 out of every 1,000 were married. Maryland took second place with 15.3 while Mississippi ranked third with sixteen.

Conservative New England. The more conservative New England states have the lowest marriage rate with about 7.3 to the 1,000 population, while the middle Atlantic comprising New York, Pennsylvania and other industrial states has a rate of about 8.6.

The marriage analysis is featured by the statement that in United States are forty-three counties in which the marriage rate is three times that of the state in which they lie.

These "Gretna Greens" usually are confined to one or to a few counties of the particular state.

Gretna Greens. "Many of the Gretna Greens are small towns in counties adjacent to large cities."

Cecil County, Maryland, takes the county record with 203 marriages per 1,000 population.

The following counties are given as the places of more runaway marriages than all the rest of the United States combined:

California—Orange County.

Colorado—Arapahoe, Jefferson and Sedgewick counties.

Florida—Broward County.

Georgia—Charlton, Quitman and Walker counties.

Idaho—Kootenai County.

Illinois—Lake and Monroe counties.

Indiana—Clark County.

Iowa—Mills County.

Kansas—Johnson County.

Kentucky—Boyd, Campbell and Kenton counties.

Louisiana—St. Bernard Parish.

Maryland—Cecil, Garrett and Howard counties.

Michigan—Menominee and Monroe counties.

Nebraska—Safford County.

New Mexico—Hidalgo County.

Ohio—Lawrence County.

South Dakota—Union County.

Tennessee—Sullivan County.

Texas—Comal, Lamb, Pomeroy and Rockwall counties.

Utah—Davis County.

Virginia—Greensville, Alexandria and Danville counties.

West Virginia—Brooke County.

CHARLES CONFARR OF CLIFTON DIES

Charles Confarr, 77, postmaster of Clifton, died at his home in that village, Monday morning at 10 o'clock. Death followed his third stroke of paralysis, suffered Sunday morning at 4 o'clock and which affected his left side.

Mr. Confarr was born in Clifton and spent his entire life there. He was a blacksmith until seven years ago and has held the office of postmaster five years.

He leaves his widow and one son, Lloyd Confarr, Cedarville, and two sisters, Mrs. Louisa Wheeler, Dayton, and Mrs. S. C. House, Clifton.

He was a member of the Clifton Presbyterian Church and the K. of P. Lodge of that place and the Masonic Lodge of Yellow Springs.

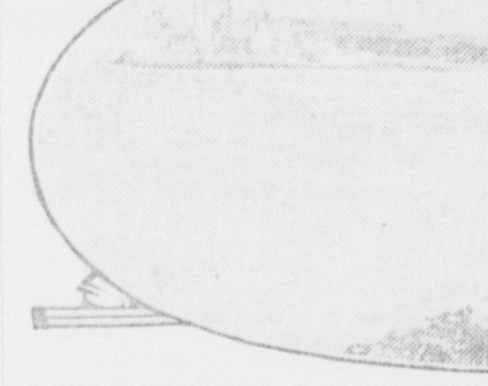

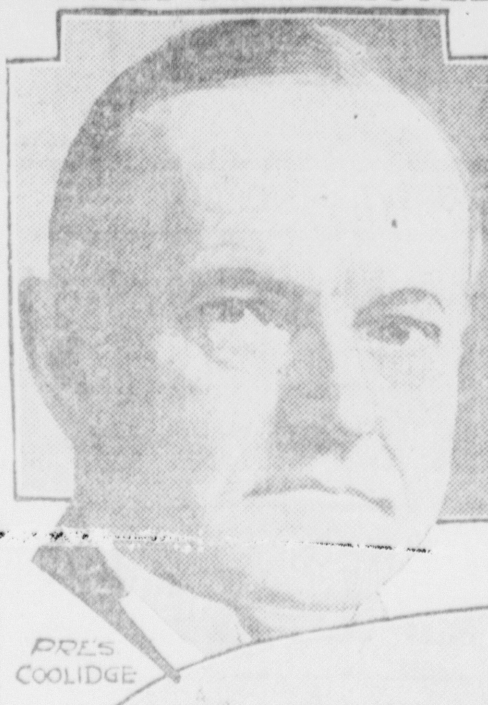

Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Clifton Presbyterian Church with burial in the Clifton Cemetery.

Flying Teacher

Last June, Miss Beatrice Townsend, New Orleans school teacher, took her first ride in an airplane. A few days later she left for Lambert Field, St. Louis, to take an intensive course in aviation, in both flying and mechanical technique. She now holds a pilot's license and hopes to own a plane of her own. Although still teaching school, Miss Townsend has applied for a pilot's job in the air mail service between New Orleans and Atlanta.

COOLIDGE EXPECTED TO VISIT CUBA FOR CONFERENCE

President Coolidge is reported to have decided to accept the invitation of President Gerardo Machado of Cuba to attend the opening of the Pan-American Union on Jan. 16. Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg probably will accompany him and most of the American ambassadors to the southern republic will be present at the meeting. Woodrow Wilson was the only president to sail for foreign shores during his term of office. President Coolidge is expected to remain in Cuba only a few days, returning to the United States as soon as possible.

PLANS TO DISPOSE OF MUSCLE SHOALS TO BE CONSIDERED

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Oct. 10.—A thorough airing of the Muscle Shoals disposal question will be given when the Southern Appalachian Power Conference meets here for a three-day session beginning October 12. It was announced here today by T. R. Preston, local backers of president of the conference.

Every senator and representative from the twelve Southeastern states involved has been invited to attend the conference and give his views on the proper disposal of the giant hydro-power plant at Muscle Shoals.

There are many proposals for the disposal of Muscle Shoals. There are factions in the South which believe that it should be sold to fertilizer producers, other groups who think the power companies should be permitted to buy the site and others who think Henry Ford should be drafted to re-submit his offer for the project.

Representatives from each of these groups have been invited to address the conference, and out of all the conflicting views as to which disposal is best, a thorough ventilation of the entire matter is expected.

"The Southern Appalachian Power Conference holds no brief for either of the disposal proposals regarding Muscle Shoals," said Dr. Joseph Hyde Pratt, chairman of the executive committee of the conference. "The conference merely wants to get the whole question before the people. All the various groups hold an equal belief in common and that is that the Muscle Shoals project should be put to some use wherein its full powers can be developed."

In addition to the thronging of the giant project, the congressional red tape that entwines the Muscle Shoals matter, also serves to place an embargo against further power development on the upper Tennessee River and its tributaries and thus retard the development of power in the South.

It is to continue the South in the next decade or so will face a problem on insufficient electric energy to operate its great industrial projects, and it is important for that reason that the Muscle Shoals question be disposed of.

In addition to Muscle Shoals, the Chattanooga meeting will take up the widely discussed topic of electrification of farms and rural sections, flood control in relation to power development decentralization of industry and co-ordination of power projects already developed.

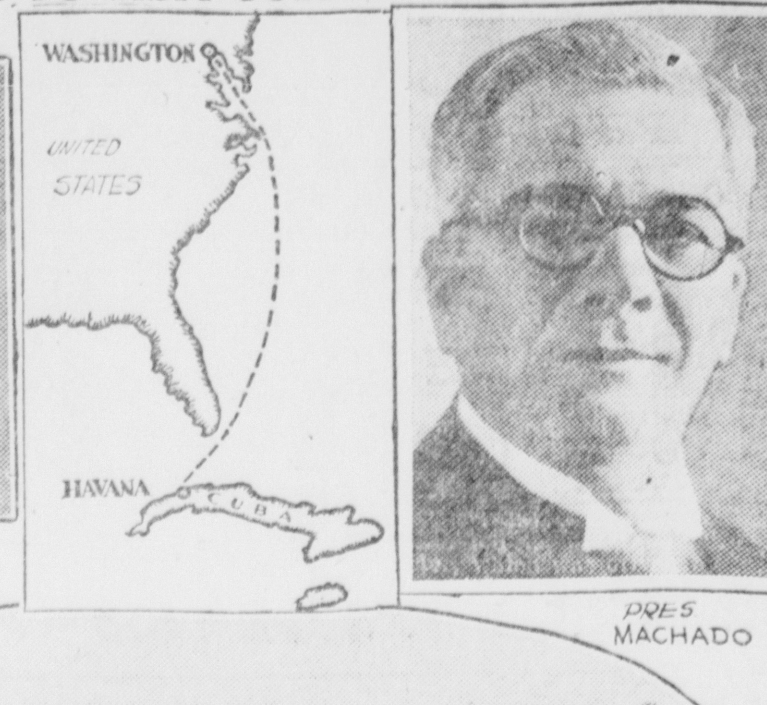

Governors invited. Governors of twelve Southern states have been invited to delegate fifteen citizens of each state to represent each of their states at the conference. Practically every Governor has already named delegates, as has practically every industrial, commercial and agricultural organization of the South and the Chattanooga gathering.

Farm Notes

NEEDED HIGH YIELD
Unless the Ohio farmer's oats crop threshed out better than thirty-seven bushels an acre, he probably made no profit on the crop this year.

Rural economists at the Ohio State University say that on the basis of cost of production records kept on twenty Putnam County farms this summer, John F. Fowler, one of the economists, puts it this way:

"The average cost of producing oats was $15.50 an acre on twenty Putnam County farms this year, costs ranging from $12.32 to $24.20 an acre. With oats worth 42 cents a bushel, it would take thirty-seven bushels to pay the average cost of production on an acre."

"The 230 acres of oats harvested this year on these farms yielded an average of forty seven bushels an acre, which gave a 10 bushel margin between cost and returns. The average yield of the county was not so good. From 1920 to 1926, oats yielded thirty five bushels to the acre on the average in Putnam County. Four years out of the seven the yield of the county was below thirty seven bushels."

"Many farmers were delayed in sowing their oats this spring because of the extra work necessary in cleaning up corn stalks, and also because of wet weather. The yields on these twenty farms varied from twenty six to sixty eight bushels an acre. Fourteen acres were not harvested, as the straw was not tall enough to cut with the binder. Profits from growing oats are obtained only when good yields are produced."

SAYS BOOKS WORTH MORE THAN BATTLES
Dr. James I. Weyer, director of the N. Y. State Library school is one of those who believes the pen is mightier than the sword.

Speaking before the New York Library Association, he took Cressy's fifteen decisive battles and listed against each a book of approximately the same date. "In Dr. Weyer's opinion these books have proved of more worth to the world than the fifteen battles:

work for the year and will attend the Central Ohio Annual Conference this week in Springfield. At the noon hour the delegates were served dinner in the dining hall of Shorter Hall.

A special program for the afternoon was prepared by the vice-president of the society, Mrs. Christine Smith of Detroit, Michigan, and was participated in by the students who delivered musical numbers and songs and addresses by the delegates attending the meeting in Columbus. Mrs. Christine Smith, president, and in her opening address complimented the splendid student body, the work of the school, and what it stood for, and she lived to see students educated at the school dedicate their lives for the cause of missionary work in the foreign fields, and in her travels in South America and other European countries, and especially in the dark continent of West and Central Africa, the African students who were supported by the Women's Mite Missionary Society had returned to their native country and established schools. She also spoke of the splendid work of Bishop John A. Gregg, former president of the university, also of his wife, who has accompanied him in most of his trips into the interior of Africa. Miss Hallie Q. Brown gave a very interesting talk on missions as conducted by Bishop Daniel A. Payne, the founder of Wilberforce University, and how he prayed that the time might come when students from Africa would be sent to the school and educated, and since the death of Bishop Payne over forty students were sent to the school and trained for missionary work. Mrs. Bertha K. Hurst, who has recently returned from an extended visit in Europe, spoke of the missionary work in Florida, how she and her husband, Bishop John Hurst, attended services on the Sabbath in Paris, France, and then the people in the afternoon of Sunday attended bull fights. She declared not only did France want missionaries, but the United States felt the imperative need of missionary work. Other inspiring addresses were made by ladies representing Africa, Bermuda, South America and Sierra Leone. Two students in attendance at the school being educated for missionary work, Misses Zella Turner and Wiggins were introduced to the delegates by Mrs. Smith.

PHYSICIAN URGES NEED FOR PROPER FOOD FOR PUPILS

Dr. H. C. Messenger, Xenia physician and baby specialist, issued a statement Monday, outlining the importance of the proper care and feeding of children, and urging support of the Federated P.T.A. drive for $1,000 Tuesday, for underprivileged children of the city.

"The period while a child is attending school is an extremely active one. The vast number of metabolic changes going on and the growth of the body demand plenty and suitable food," the physician said.

"The physical development should receive as much attention as the mental growth and this is best accomplished by seeing that the child is given food properly chosen for his requirements and so prepared that it is readily digested. Many children of the school age, although they eat three regular meals daily, are undernourished because they are forced to eat food intended for adults and not adapted to their needs," he said.

"There is a lack of knowledge among all classes as regards the nourishment required by a growing school child who is active from early morning until 8 o'clock at night or later. He is, as a rule, fed to satisfy his appetite and when this is accomplished, the parents believe their duty is done."

"To a grown person, the loss of a pound or two in weight means practically nothing, but to a child who only gains normally from five to six pounds a year, this loss is important and should be continued, resistance is lowered, the child tires easily, is listless, inattentive, learns slowly and is susceptible to any disease that is prevalent. When tuberculosis develops in childhood it is always in those undernourished. By serving nutritious, well-cooked lunches at noon, the time that it is most helpful, to children in the schools, the greatest possible good is done and records show that by this simple procedure there is a marked gain in weight by the end of the year, quite often immediately noticed, as well as a decided change for the better in health and behavior."

"By all means, the serving of wholesome noon lunches to school children should be encouraged. This splendid plan will do more for the children of this city than any other general measure on the part of the public."

The first class of the series will be held at the home of Mrs. Buck Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, to which she invites all women and girls interested in Bible study. In order that the greatest benefit may be derived from these classes, Mrs. Buck is urging a full attendance at the first meeting.

Terrell, now 22, was arrested June 16, 1926, and sentenced to the state reformatory for from one to fifteen years on a charge of burglary, July 29. He will have served one year and three months of the sentence when he is given his freedom.

Charged with intoxication, Homer Jenkins was fined $10 and costs, Peter Stafford, $25 and costs, and Robert Kearney, $15 and costs by Mayor John W. Prugh Monday morning. They pleaded guilty, following their arrest over the week end by police and Pennsylvania railroad detectives. Stafford was also required to pay $5.00, balance due on an old fine.

Arrested by police, accused of stealing a box of cigars worth $2.75 from a stand at the baseball game at Washington Park Sunday, Clarence Lynn, colored, was locked up at Police Headquarters on a charge of petit larceny. He was scheduled to be arraigned Monday.

Police expect to charge Lester Roberts, colored, with drunk and disorderly and possessing liquor, following his arrest over the week end by Patrolmen Charles Thompson and George Robinson. The officers found a quart of liquor. He was locked up pending arraignment Monday.

TWELVE CASES FOR COURT OF APPEALS

Twelve cases, appealed on error, are docketed for consideration by the Second District, Greene County Court of Appeals, when it convenes in Common Pleas Court Tuesday morning, Oct. 18.

Deliberations of the appellate court will probably be the only court procedure for the next month as Judge R. L. Gowdy left Sunday for Cleveland, O., to preside on the Cuyahoga County bench, under an assignment of Carrington T. Marshall, chief justice of the Ohio Supreme Court.

RECOVER STOLEN CAR IN CLEVELAND

A Nash coupe owned by Joseph Gable of the Xenia Iron and Metal Co., stolen in Cincinnati a week ago Saturday, was recovered in Cleveland and returned to the owner, Sunday.

The thieves that took the car while parked on a downtown Cincinnati street, were apprehended in Cleveland and the car was recognized through police reports, although the license plate had been changed. The car was only slightly damaged.

XENIAN IS PAROLED FROM REFORMATORY

Ninety-one prisoners at the Ohio State Reformatory at Mansfield, O., were paroled at the October meeting of the State Clemency Board, including William E. Terrell, Greene County, whose parole became effective November 1.

Terrell, now 22, was arrested June 16, 1926, and sentenced to the state reformatory for from one to fifteen years on a charge of burglary, July 29. He will have served one year and three months of the sentence when he is given his freedom.

MORRIS SHARP WILL HEAD FOODY POST; SUCCEEDS RICKLES

MORRIS SHARP

Morris Sharp, former sheriff of Greene County, was elected commander of Joseph P. Foody Post, No. 35, American Legion, for the coming year at the regular meeting of the Legion in post hall in the basement of the Court House, featured by annual election of officers, Saturday night. He succeeds William R. Rickles.

Other officers elected were: Paul Creswell, vice-commander; Deputy Sheriff George Sugden, re-elected adjutant; James Curlett, finance officer; and Dr. B. R. McClellan, re-elected chaplain.

An executive committee composed of L. N. Shepard, W. R. Rickles, O. R. Jones, Dr. H. C. Messenger, Paul Fuller and the new officers, was also appointed.

A committee composed of Paul Creswell, L. N. Shepard, Paul Fuller and H. E. Seal was appointed to arrange for a dinner-dance in connection with Armistice Day observance in the basement of the Court House the night of November 11. The gathering will be open to ex-service men and their families and will also be featured by installation of the new officers.

Annual election of officers of the Xenia Vulture, Forty and Eight Society, Legion Auxiliary, will be held next Saturday.

BOMBING WAY TO HAPPINESS

Loading up several ships with malcontents and radical extremists, the President of Chile sent them to an island in the Pacific with his good wishes and his hopes that they might work out a civilization to their own liking.

Out there they can throw bombs, they can engage in any violence or do any of the stunts which they were carrying on in Chile.

If they object to established institutions in their own island balliwick, it will be their right to bomb them. Whatever is wrong in the conduct of affairs, they can demolish with torch and blasting powder.

Being of like minds, they can apply their philosophy of violence without challenge from those who believe in governments, laws and established authority. It is their island, and there will be no capitalistic hand to wrong them or oppose them or humiliate them.

If they believe in the torch and the infernal machine and violence, why should they not on their own island domain pursue liberty as they see it, and shoot up the town or blow up the banks or burn up all the temples of authority? If with them the bomb is preferable as an instrument of freedom to the ballot box, it will be their right if they so will, to bomb the ballot boxes. If a written constitution is the concoction of capitalism, they can spurn it or blow it into fragments and perdition with injury to no emissary of the capitalistic class.

Out there in the Pacific, where the ocean surfs sings the song of liberty on their own island, they can carry out their inalienable rights and every man be vouchsafed life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, as he sees them.

CHANGED WORLD'S HISTORY

The majority of the states now celebrate Columbus day as a holiday and in time most of them will probably do so. His figure is one that seems to grow greater as the centuries recede.

One might well ask how modern life would have been affected, if this great genius had never existed? When would America have been found by any civilized people, and when would our modern developments have started?

The idea that a great continent existed across the globe seemed but an impossible dream to the thinkers of that time. The boldest sailors of that age dared not venture far from European shores in their frail ships. If this constructive and original mind had not thought out the answer to this problem, if this high valor and enterprise had not dared this hazardous feat and skillfully organized what seemed then a hopeless enterprise, the discovery of the new continent might have been delayed for centuries.

$600,000,000 WORTH OF WEEDS

Weeds cost the farmers of the United States six hundred millions of dollars each year, according to H. Howard Biggar, agriculturist. According to the estimate the damage done due to reduction of crop yields at about 315 million dollars. Weeds in grains, hays and various grasses cause a dockage of 30 million dollars yearly. The cost of cutting roadside weeds was put down at 5 million dollars and that of keeping navigable streams free from weeds at 1 million dollars yearly. The remainder of the loss was in the cost of extra labor necessary to till crops because of weeds. This annual weed toll is increasing.

The Way of the World

NO SATURATION

Those who are nervous about the increasing number of motor cars and talk so much about the traffic saturation point ought to study the road situation. No more than 10 per cent of the three million miles of roads in this country are in good condition. In fact we have little more than 250,000 miles of hard surfaced roads. With rapid building of good roads automobile traffic will be nothing to worry about.

APES OR NOT

A famous scientist has declared that proof has now been absolutely established that man is descended from the apes. That is interesting, but it has little bearing on what man ought to do now.

THE "FEEL" OF BUSINESS

Midsummer is a dull time in many lines, and there has been some complaint about business or the lack of it. But with autumn at hand there is a new "feel" in the air and in business. Times are not bad and have not been. There has been temporary dullness—and that period gives promise of being on the way out.

THE GREAT COLLEGE

The Great College will not be a trade school, or a school for any kind of vocational training. Neither will it be a fossilized institution where the time is given to learning names, places, and dates. It will not be a place where the student will endeavor to take on a store of learning, which he will find inapplicable to life when he gets out in the world. The Great College will prepare young men and women to face the problems of life. It will prepare them for living thoughtfully. It will teach them the value of a human being and what the possibilities of the human in this world are.

YOU CAN'T BEAT IT

Much talk about saving life by preventing flying contests and the like. The race to Honolulu was a sad affair, but it won't prevent other races. You can't call off humanity. You can't beat the human spirit. The healthiest men and women love adventure the most. The call of danger will always be answered by the world's leaders.

The Daybook

OF A

New Yorker

By
Burton Rascoe

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—There is a new five and ten-cent store in West Forty-second street. It runs through the whole block to Forty-third, and is an airy emporium with a cafeteria on its mezzanine floor and all sorts of gadgets to attract new customers. It is much more dazzling and better ventilated than most of its sister stores. Yesterday afternoon we were jammed to the doors with well-dressed people buying such things as brooches, chocolate mints, bibs, garters, peanut butter and jam. Yes, the 5 and 10 list now includes delicatessen dainties. You can buy there pretty nearly everything, from a bottle of olives to a plate on which to serve them, for your tea party. A young woman I know, who was recently married and was busily furnishing a smart little apartment in the East Fifties, used to spend whole afternoons shopping busily at the five-and-dime, and then find that she needed a taxi to transport her and her packages home. The taxi fare, of course, rubbed the bloom off the economy idea, because she could have bought the same kitchen gadgets at one of the cheaper department stores, and could have had them sent home. It probably would not have afforded her as much amusement.

Panorama of New York: A greasy, lecherous-looking aged man slipping a roll of bills into the purse of his companion, a fresh, full-blown opulent girl of about 20, as the two consume chocolate nut sundaes at a drug store counter. . . . He is counseling her to get another tan-o-shanter, but just like the one she is wearing, and in which she looks pretty terrible. . . . A fat little woman and a little girl scrambling precariously along the step of a Sixth avenue car until they find a seat that suits them. . . . I have cold chills until they are all set, so dizzy has their progress been. . . . A man driving along Fifth avenue in the thick of theatre traffic, in a flivver, with two police cops in the back seat, braying and yelling at bus passengers and all pedestrians. The din is terrific. . . . Women pawing at each other to get at the "three-color kitchens" advertised by a department store. . . . exclaiming over pots and pans in lettuce green and canary yellow. . . . even the fly swatter on a nail has a lettuce green handle. . . . Supercilious counter boys at Huyler's, the Mirror, and Happiness shoppers, all high-hatting anyone who wants service. . . . More supercilious counter boys at the checkroom at Grand Central station, pretending to be deaf, dumb and blind when I want to check my brief case. . . . Fat women eating special ice cream cake at Schraff's, at 50 cents a throw, and talking about going on a diet.

Prophets at Home

Of all erroneous theories which have crept into the general acceptance, is any farther from truth than that about a prophet in his own country?

The fact is that we are all prophets at heart. Hence we unconsciously assume that those things close at hand which are the best of their kind must necessarily be the best to be found anywhere—simply because they excel any that we happen to know about.

When I was a small lad in my own town named Mat Kump played the brass drum in the Sons of Veterans' Band. I was brought up to believe that Mat Kump was the most skilled bass drummer in the world. And I still think so. When I pause to consider the thing in a calm, unemotional way, without bias or prejudice, I realize there must have been men somewhere who could play the big drum just as well as Mat Kump did. But I didn't know them personally, and when I think of a bass drum I unconsciously think of it as an instrument which can be played properly only by Mat Kump. Nothing will make two boys from different small towns fight so quickly as an argument over which town has the best "slip-horn" player, or the best baseball catcher. One boy says: "Our team's got the best catcher," and the other boy retorts: "How could he be the best, when our team's got the best catcher in the state?" Then the first boy declares that their man is not merely the best in the state, but the best in the United States. The only reason he isn't in the big leagues is that he wants to stay home to help his father. Thus the argument goes on until the two double up their fists and fight.

A prophet is most honored in his own country. I used to know a man who worked longer hours than anybody in town. All his friends thought he must be a wonderful executive. He was about the only man in town who returned to his office every night after dinner. But the reason he worked such long hours was not that he was a good executive, but a poor one. He had to make up for lack of ability and lack of system of putting in more hours. All day long he hemmed and hawed and procrastinated and frittered away valuable time instead of flying at his tasks and getting them done. The reason he wasted so much time during the day was that he knew he was going to return to the office at night.

It is an old saying that a man will fight for his home, but never for a boarding house. I wonder how hard a man would fight for an apartment house.

Peter, however, scarcely noticed what she was doing. He was too busy thinking aloud. "Carries her babies in her pocket and skip off with his brothers and sisters, but he will be in a day or so."

How to Achieve Beauty

BY MRS. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

Lovely Neck and Shoulders Contribute Much to Beauty

The neck and shoulders seem to be the step-child of beauty, and for that reason I am going to devote these talks on how to make them real assets toward your attractiveness. Almost every woman when she cares for her face and figure, neglects the shoulders and neck which come between. She stops at the neckline when she is working from above, and at the collarbone when she is giving attention to her body. It is surprising how many necks you see that are not even immaculately clean.

In my opinion a lovely face is put to shame when it surmounts an ill-cared-for and unattractive neck. Really, your face can only be as good looking as your neck, for there is no actual dividing line. And the same applies to the body. In a way, the neck and shoulders have a double load to carry, for they are glimpsed by the person who looks at you both as part of the face, and part of the body.

I suppose the importance of these two features is more noticeable to the beauty specialist than to anyone else. All kinds of necks come to me—scrawny, fat, with a dowager's hump in back, or with collar bones that stand out like the camel's hump in front. I never treat the neck without considering the neck an integral part of it, deservng every bit as much attention as the proverbial step-child it usually is. I do this because I know how essential it is to the newer beauty which comprises the body as a whole, not merely a pretty face or a shapely ankle. You can't hide your neck behind ruffles and ruffs in this day and age.

To me, the neck has come to be a regular index to health, character and disposition. I can tell by the way you hold your head whether you are sulky or vibrant and full of energy, quarrelsome, inquisitive or placidly comfort-loving.

I am going to tell you the fine points in keeping a lovely throat line and neck and shoulders which enhance the beauty of both your face and your figure. I do not mean the "stem" part of the neck alone, but that which goes from the point of the shoulders up and from directly under the ear down. First of all, I shall take up the throat line, which will be the subject of the next talk.

Peter's Adventures

By Mrs. Florence Smith Vincent.

The Last Guess and Wrong Again

"Why, why, it's a baby!" stammered Peter. The queer creature nodded.

"Of course. Do you suppose I'd carry about a full-grown son? This little fellow is the youngest of my fifteen—he's not quite strong enough yet to hop out of my pocket and skip off with his brothers and sisters, but he will be in a day or so.

"For shame, Bobby, to act like that! You never learned such manners from me!"

The mother had looked down and seen the saucy face of her small son making at him with his hands. She smartly cuffed his ears with her paw.

"said he, over and over, looking closely at the creature before him. "But your front paws aren't any shorter than your hind ones!" remarked Peter.

"Who said they were?" demanded the mother, shortly.

"Can you hop like this?" Peter got down on all fours and leaped about in front of the astonished creature.

"No, I can't, and pray tell, why should I wish to? I can skip and I can run and I can swing by my tail. What you are doing looks very silly to me!"

"Then you are not a Kangaroo!" declared Peter, getting to his feet and standing at his full height. "I give it up. I don't know who you are."

Instead of telling him, the mother seemed to grow very angry at the boy's words.

With a low growl she wrappd from the log and again wrapping her tail around the branch, and so sudden was the spring she made that her little son, who had been leaning "way out of the pocket, now lost his balance and tumbled to the ground.

Household Hints

BY MRS. MARY MORTON

MENU HINT

I became acquainted with butterscotch pie on a brief sojourn in Indiana, and it is a family favorite. I find it gets the best results if I first cook the sugar and butter, moistened with a little milk, until brown, and then mix the other ingredients and cook until thick. It gives it that good, caramel taste that to me is the proper butterscotch flavor.

Hamburg Loaf—Two pounds hamburger, half pound sausage, one small onion, chopped fine; salt and pepper. Mix well and mold in pan. Bake one hour and a quarter. Garnish with hard cooked eggs and parsley. Serve hot or cold.

Butterscotch Pie—Two cups milk, one cup brown sugar, two tablespoons cornstarch, three tablespoons butter, one-fourth teaspoon salt, two eggs, one teaspoon vanilla, pastry crust, one-fourth pound marshmallows. Scald milk in double boiler, mix sugar and cornstarch and add it to milk, stir until thick. Cover and cook 15 minutes. Then add butter and salt and egg yolks, slightly beaten, and cook one minute. Add vanilla and remove. Put into pastry crust, soften marshmallows and add to beaten whites, pour over pie and brown in oven. Or, cook sugar and butter until brown. Mix cornstarch, salt, yolks of eggs to a froth, add milk, put with browned mixture, cook until thick, add vanilla and pour into crust.

Marrons—This is the French name for European chestnuts.

Cocconut Custard Pie (Mrs. Mary Morton's Daily Tested Recipe.)

One cup cocconut, two cups milk, one-half cup sugar, two eggs, one-fourth teaspoon salt. Put cocconut through the food chopper and cover with milk; add sugar and let it stand one hour. Beat the eggs and salt together until well mixed and add to cocconut and milk. Line deep pie plate with crust, pour in mixture and bake 25 to 30 minutes in moderate oven. Always soak the cocconut in milk before making the cocconut custard pie.

Quick Potato Salad

A housewife writes: "I found a quick way of making potato salad which is really good, by simply mixing green tomato relish with sliced cooked potatoes and hard boiled eggs, and then adding mayonnaise dressing and celery salt to taste. This way you can make potato salad even when vegetables are not available or too high priced, and it saves time spent in chopping up separately the pickles, celery, onions, pepper, etc."

Pastry Hint

OYSTER COCKTAIL (Mrs. Mary Morton's Daily Tested Recipe.)

Behind The Scenes
In Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Carlos Davila, new ambassador from Chile to the United States, is a newspaper man—not the mere owner of a newspaper, who delegates the job of getting it out to hired hands, but the actual working editor of one. The La Nacion—meaning, of course, The Nation—which he helped to establish about 10 years ago in Santiago, the Chilean capital, is his paper, and until a few days before he started for Washington he was "handling" copy on it, and writing "stuff" with never a premonition that he was so soon to become a diplomat.

It's not, in fact, the kind of envoy this country's accustomed to welcoming from abroad—to whom diplomacy's a game, which the other fellow generally plays better than we do and usually with less success. It's doubtful if the folks he represents wouldn't be better off in the end by giving us a square deal. Ambassador Davila, for variety, arrives among us firm in the faith that international business is just like any other business between friends—to be transacted on the level, with no occasion for any extraordinary degree of slickness on either side.

It so happens that I knew the ambassador before he was an ambassador at all—when he was exclusively a newspaper man, just starting La Nacion.

He's come across the Andes to my town of Buenos Aires to negotiate for what we call, in newspaper-ese, a "telegraph service" for his infant daily—Buenos Aires being South America's main distributing point of tidings from the outside world—and I had the felicity of signing his initial contract with him. He wrote it himself, in Spanish, which I didn't understand, but took his word for it, and he didn't slip a "joker" into the whole thing, as he could, as easily as not.

What do you know about that?—for a future diplomat.

After that I sent him my telegraph report, tickety-tick-tick, by wire, across the pampas and the Andes, from Buenos Aires to

Living and Loving

BY MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

What Price Friendship?

To what extent can married people be friendly with members of the other sex? It's an interesting question and involves a good deal more than would seem at first glance. A young woman puts the question to me, and I'd like to hear from some of my readers on the subject.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I think your advice to other people is splendid, so I am sure you can help me. My problem is just like hundreds of others, but as yet I haven't found a satisfactory answer to it.

"I'm 20 years of age, considered good looking and am quite popular with both men and women.

"Now my problem is: A young married man whom I have known for about two months, has been attracted to me and we both feel that we could be very good friends.

"He works in the same office I do, and naturally, we are in a great deal together during office hours.

"Do you think it would be very unconventional if I allowed him to take me to lunch, for a short drive during the noon hour, or home just after tea time? I have a friend that was a perfect gentleman, but nationality stood in the way, but it just goes to show that there is a nice boy for some nice girl. So cheer up, girls, and be happy. That's the spirit that wins the boys.

JOYOUS!"

You have the right idea, Joyous, only I think that the nice boys are not so "few and far between" as you seem to think.

I Have Said in My Heart

By IDAH MCGLONE GIBSON

IN one of the late magazines there is an article which is particularly edifying. It is entitled "The Art of Being Kind."

In it the writer says the two great insistent cries of human nature are for sympathy and understanding.

This really sums all that wonderful and tangible quality we call "magnetism." You are forcibly drawn to the person who understands your needs and quickly responds to them, and the one who, through experience or intuition, broad understanding of humanity and a sincere sympathy in the lives and affairs of others, is always famous for magnetic qualities.

It was not because of Cleopatra's physical beauty alone that she was able to ensnare not only the mighty Caesar, but Anthony as well. It was because she was able to understand the ambitions of both these men and sincerely sympathize with them. Especially is this true of Anthony, whose love she kept longest.

"ONE WHO WOULD LIKE TO KNOW"

If the friendship concerned you two alone, it would be all right, my dear. The trouble is, so many people are involved.

For instance, how does this man's wife feel about his various friendships with women? Is she big and understanding enough to accept them? You couldn't be happy in a friendship that was making another woman miserable, could you? I've known a girl who if he was her husband? And does he accord his wife the same liberty to have married men friends? If you can answer these questions satisfactorily there is no need to worry about gossiping tongues, for they don't matter so much, although they will wag. I have always maintained that married people needed friends of the opposite sex, but often the situation is misunderstood, more's the pity.

The controversy about "nice" boys and girls has another comment in the line following:

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I agree perfectly with 'Heinie' and 'Eugene' that there are some nice young men left, the only trouble is that they are few and far between. Why, just your last time ago I had a friend that was a perfect gentleman, but nationality stood in the way, but it just goes to show that there is a nice boy for some nice girl. So cheer up, girls, and be happy. That's the spirit that wins the boys.

JOYOUS!"

You have the right idea, Joyous, only I think that the nice boys are not so "few and far between" as you seem to think.

was able to understand the ambitions of both these men and sincerely sympathize with them.

Especially is this true of Anthony, whose love she kept longest.

It was not the waning of Josephine's youth and physical charms, so much as her absolute lack of sympathetic interest in Napoleon's schemes, except where they seemed to advance her own aggrandizement, which caused his desertion of her.

The other day Douglas Fairbanks was heard to say:

"I think the reason why my wife, Mary Pickford, is such a success upon the screen is because of her great sympathy with everything that lives, and her understanding of every human emotion. That, I am sure, 'gets over' in pictures as well as in life in the end."

History teems with women who have held the love of their worlds until their demise at an advanced age, because of their sympathy and understanding, although one knows that there is a time when interest in the physical ceases.

Memo: One should make most, always, of this sympathy, and understanding, if one wishes to make the most of life and get the most out of it.

Reserves Win Nineteenth; Beat Dayton All-Stars

Superb Mound Work Gives Locals 8 To 4 Edge Sunday

Behind the excellent pitching of Don Clark, who allowed few hits, the Reserves pounded out eleven hits in eight runs to register their nineteenth victory of the season Sunday afternoon at Washington Park, defeating the Dayton All-Stars, a colored nine, 8 to 4.

Clark retired the visiting team in order for the first four innings and did not allow the semblance of a single until the eighth inning, when, with one down, Jackson singled. King's single in the ninth was the only other hit made by the colored aggregation.

Three of the four runs scored by Dayton were due to errors and a wild pitch.

Reserves hit safely in every inning but the first but nevertheless scored one run in the opening round, aided by two errors and a stolen base.

In the first inning, Simmons did not first on Jackson's error. In Frank filed out but Simmons stole second. Conley grounded out and Simmons crossed the plate when Rice mislaid Shuey's tap.

Reserves added four more tallies in the second. Durnbaugh started things with a single but was forced at second by B. Frank. Frank stole second and Weller grounded out. Frank going to third. Clark was hit by a pitched ball and stole second. Both scored on King's error on Simmons' fly. Simmons went to second on the misplay and stole third. H. Frank walked and stole second and Conley cleared the bases with a single. Conley immediately stole second but Shuey filed out.

Local nine scored once in the fifth, sixth and seventh rounds. In the fifth Shuey singled. Tangeman struck out and Durnbaugh forced the runner at second. Durnbaugh stole second, from where he scored on a double by B. Frank.

Conley's single and Clark's two-base hit accounted for another run in the sixth and the final tally in the seventh was obtained under like circumstances. This time Tangeman singled and Weller doubled.

Two errors and a stolen base gave Dayton a run in the fifth. Simmons threw wildly to first after fielding Shuey's grounder, the batter then stealing second. He went to third as Simmons and Michael were being retired on infield rollers and scored when Simmons also made a wild heave on a roller by Jackson.

Dayton added two more runs in the eighth. Warner fanned but Jackson obtained his team's first hit of the game, a single. Jackson reached first on a single. Jackson reached first on a single. Jackson reached first on a single.

In the ninth, King singled and went to second when Smith was hit by a pitched ball. King stole third, unopposed. On the double steal, King scored while Smith was being trapped between first and second and eventually thrown out by Tangeman. The next two batters were easy.

Clark fanned eight batters and did not walk a man, better starting Dayton pitcher, struck out five and walked one. He was knocked off the mound in the seventh and replaced by H. Shoecraft. Both teams made four errors in the field.

Reserves ran wild on the bases, stealing eight sacks, five thefts coming in the eighth, the second. Dayton swiped three bases. B. Frank had sixteen putouts at first. Dayton had only one runner left on base.

The Reserve-Dayton Marco game next Sunday has been cancelled by the Marcos. Dayton expects to play a return game with Brookville next Sunday and the local management is dickering with other teams in this locality for a contest.

WILBERFORCE AND BLUEFIELD BATTLE TO SCORELESS TIE

Battling most of the time in mid-field, Bluefield Institute and Wilberforce University played a 0 to 0 football game at Bluefield, W. Va. Saturday afternoon. Weather was ideal for the contest.

The teams were evenly matched. Harding, Wilberforce star kicker, narrowly missed a place kick for a field goal from the forty-seven yard line in the third period, the ball hitting the cross bar and bouncing back.

Snell, a substitute halfback, from Bellaire, O., in his freshman year, was Wilberforce's best bet for ground gaining. Captain Gallion, Bluefield linesman, was a bulwark of strength on the line.

Bluefield is represented by an unusually strong team this year, defeating Howard University at Washington, D. C., a week ago, 19 to 6, and trouncing Knoxville College, Knoxville, Tenn., 33 to 0 in the only two games played prior to the Wilberforce contest.

Wilberforce will travel to Louisville, Ky., next Saturday for a game with Simmons University.

MOVIE THEATER IS DAMAGED BY BOMB

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 10.—The Logan picture theater at North Minneapolis was partly wrecked by a bomb early today. Considerable damage was done to the building but no one was injured.

This is the second bombing of moving picture houses since the strike of motion picture operators, stage hands, scenic artists, bill posters and musicians began here a month ago.

YELLOW JACKETS DEFEATED BY RIO GRANDE COLLEGE 13 TO 6

Cedarville College "Yellow-Jackets" lost their third football game this season by a margin of one touchdown when Rio Grande staged a comeback in the third quarter to score one touchdown and win 13 to 6 at Wellston Saturday afternoon.

Cedarville played fine football at times but was weak and clumsy when within striking distance of the goal line and had only itself to blame for loss of the game.

"Breaks" of the game also went against the Yellow-Jackets. Rio Grande scored its first touchdown in the first quarter in the first five minutes of play, as a result of a penalty and a poor punt.

Cedarville received the kick-off

and on the second play was penalized fifteen yards for holding, pushing the team back to its one-yard line. The visiting eleven got off a poor punt from behind its own goal line and Rio Grande took the ball on the twenty-yard mark.

Successful line plays resulted in a score. The try for extra point was successful.

After an exchange of kicks, Cedarville marched almost the entire length of the field for a touchdown in the second period. The extra point was not made.

The second half was a repetition of the first. Aided by a fifteen-yard penalty, Rio Grande marched down the field for its second touchdown a few minutes after the third quarter got under way. Cedarville threatened to score several times but always lacked the punch.

Brown, Cedarville left tackle, was ordered from the game near the close of the fourth period for engaging in a fight with a Rio Grande player, who was also forced to retire. Brown was outstanding on the defense and another player by the same name, playing left tackle for Rio Grande, featured on the defense.

Adair, Cedarville quarterback, was a constant menace on the offense and turned in some nice gains. Punting of Jones, diminutive Rio Grande halfback, was extraordinary. The half-punt averaged almost sixty yards on his boots and was invaluable to his team at critical moments.

Cedarville will play Bluffton College at Bluffton Saturday, October 15. Bluffton won the 1926 game, 17 to 2 and defeated Capital U. Saturday 18 to 0.

Cedarville 0 6 0 0—6
Rio Grande 7 0 6 0—13

SCHOOL DRIVE TO START ON TUESDAY

Solicitors in the spirited drive for $1,000 to be used to feed and clothe underprivileged children of the city, under auspices of the Federated Parent-Teacher Association, will start out early Tuesday morning in the one-day drive for the amount.

Mrs. Charles A. Weaver, president of the Federated organization and chairman of the drive, is urging that solicitors keep the names of the people in their territory who they were unable to talk to, for future reference. Xenians are asked to be ready for the solicitors and respond generously to the fund.

ALL YOU NEED IS A NICKEL
And a Sure-enough Smoke Surprise is Yours

Man, put your hand in your pocket and locate one of those loose nickels! That's all it costs to treat your taste to the most smoke-pleasure ever bought! A fresh, mellow Havana Ribbon cigar for 5c! News? You bet it's news!

Maybe you've tried a lot of 5c cigars that were "said to be worth more." But here's one that sold at a higher price for years! And if it weren't for those same volume sales, the present price of 5c wouldn't be possible. Havana Ribbon is really a fine cigar in every sense of the word. Mellow-as-they-make-em! Made of ripe tobacco. Just friendly—full of joyous fragrance and satisfying body. Now—5c.

But say—just try it. Walk into the nearest cigar store and say "Havana Ribbon!" Lay down a nickel and light up there on the spot. Only a nickel—but it'll set your taste a-purring to pure contentment right from the first puff!

First for Finer Flavor—No Throat Irritation—No Cough

11,105* doctors give written opinions.

WHAT is the quality that Giuseppe Danise, Queena Mario, Adam Didur, Antonio Cortis, Nanette Guilford, Wilton Lackaye, Lenore Ulric, "Roxy," and other famous singers, actors, broadcasters and public speakers have found that makes LUCKY STRIKES delightful and of no possible injury to their voices?

For the answer we turned to medical men and asked them this question:

Do you think from your experience with LUCKY STRIKE cigarettes that they are less irritating to sensitive or tender throats than other cigarettes, whatever the reason?

11,105* doctors answered this question "YES."

Consider what these figures mean; consider that they represent the opinion and experience of doctors, those whose business it is to know.

"Roxy," a favorite in Radio-land, writes:

"During a strenuous rehearsal, with the work entailed in operating the World's Largest Theatre, where one's nervous system is working under great pressure, there is nothing quite like a 'Lucky Strike' cigarette. It does not impair the voice, and gives the mental relaxation so essential to carry on."

Answers to Correspondents
"Thanks to you, dear doctor, from 240 pounds I am now down to 200, and feel 101 per cent better in every way! I'm going to keep on until I get down to 150, as that is my normal weight. I'm a nurse, doing private work, and of course my rest is broken a great deal. It is wise to go on this dieting very strenuously. I'm very fond of tomato soup. I add three cans of water to one of the soup, and by taking a cup of this and a cracker every four hours, I feel no ill effects. I will lose five pounds in two days on this regime. How often is it safe to do this? Will you also let me know what is the food value of an average helping of liver, green peppers and Bent's wa-crackers?" M.

You can keep on your work, M., and diet enough to lose one and one-half or perhaps two pounds a week, without any but good effects.
The more of that excess fat you get off, the easier your work will be. You'll also find that you won't notice the occasional lack of sleep so much.

The tomato is one of the aristocrats of the vegetables, being high in all of the vitamins, no matter in what form—canned, cooked or dried or fresh. So if you find it necessary to go on low calorie days, say one day each week, that is alright to take. An average can of tomato soup weighs ten ounces and contains 150 C. If you add three cans of water, this mixture would make five cups of soup, averaging but thirty C. to the cup, provided you don't add any butter or fat or milk to it.

Bent's water crackers weigh about an ounce each and count 100
C. Doesn't seem possible, does it—one-half cracker, 50 C. Green peppers four medium (about thirteen ounces) to the 100 C. Liver, a piece 3x3x½ broiled, or fried in mineral oil (no calories), weight factors 2 ½ ounces, is 100 C. (If you use fat for frying, you have to count it extra.)

The pamphlet on reducing can be obtained by sending ten cents in stamps and a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope with request.

Deficiency Diseases
MRS. C.—By the term "deficiency disease" is meant a disease that is caused by a diet lacking in sufficient of the elements necessary for proper functioning. Rickets, for instance, is a deficiency disease, caused by lack of calcium, phosphorus and the vitamin D (the antirachitic vitamin) and lack of sunlight. (The foods highest in vitamin D are cod liver oil and egg yolks.)

Scorbut is caused by lack of vitamin C (the anti-scorbutic vitamin) (highest in the fruits, especially the citrus fruits, and cabbage and tomatoes). Pellagra may be caused by a deficiency of vitamins or a deficiency of the complete protein (meat element in food). Tuberculosis is now believed to flourish best where there has been a lack of the vitamin A (highest in cod liver oil, milk, cream, butter, eggs, greens).

It must be remembered, however, that one could have sufficient of all the elements, but in wrong proportions so that (perhaps with other factors) indigestion and diarrhea or constipation might result, and the elements would not be absorbed; therefore the word deficiency disease will have to be extended.

Another point to be remembered is that there may be a relative deficiency. Those who eat too much concentrated fats and sweets and are notably overweight, may have a relative insufficiency of the necessary elements.

We have an article on Balanced Diet which goes into the question more fully. Send only a self-addressed, stamped envelope with request.

spondents.

Europe Will Use Special Planes To Transfer Gold

LONDON, Oct. 10. — Europe is resorting to the air as a means for diminishing the great risk of transferring gold over long distances.
Gold shipments and other valuable consignments are now being sent by special planes to their destination instead of by rail and boat.

This is not only a saving of time, but the Continental banks have found that owing to the speed with which gold can thus be transported, the saving in interest is enough to pay for both the cost of transit and the insurance as well.

Under Heavy Guard
When these shipments are being made the landing fields are notified and before the arrival of the plane ample guards are rushed to the scene. As a majority of these planes are government owned, the nations act as insurance agents and troops are used, not only at the aerodromes but to transfer the valuables into the hands of the receiver.

An official of the British Imperial Airways said that the record cargo of gold shipped by air is three tons, valued at 2,500,000, which was taken to Cologne by two airplanes.

Pilots Are Armed
"In order to be able to protect their cargoes against robbers in the event of a forced landing, all aeroplane pilots and mechanics are heavily armed with revolvers,"

"Cargoes of bar gold are regularly carried by our airlines on the regular consignments by plane to England, being a shipment of
Goldfields, operating in Russia."

AUTOS COLLIDE

John looked at his host closely.
"What the devil are you trying to stammer about? Of course the shots were mine. None of you gave a sign of life at my call, so I shot into the air. If you are trying to insinuate that the shots were for Clench—take a look at that knife!"

As he spoke he glanced quickly at the other two men. They had taken his advice and were staring at the knife handle below Clench's left shoulder blade. Manuel's face was distorted and livid; Rodriguez appeared to be sunk in a stupid, morose stare. There was no longer any bravado about him that had withered away at the touch of the same whip that had lashed Manuel—fear.

Had they murdered Clench so soon?
Grown fearful of their deed so soon?
It seemed so to John. Surely, he thought, Henshaw must see it too.

His scrutinizing gaze flicked back to Henshaw to discover the latter's expression on the coat pocket in which John's right hand and automatic were hidden.

"Mr. Henshaw," began John, impatiently.
Henshaw looked up. "You go armed?" he asked mildly. "And fully dressed—at this hour of night?"

"I had not gone to bed," said John.
"If you will concentrate your attention for a moment on—"

"You had not gone to bed?" interrupted Henshaw. "And yet you told us, Mr. Moore, that you did not hear Clench fall. How do you explain the two statements?"

"I was not in my room. But—"

"Just a moment, Mr. Moore. If you were not in your room at this time of night, where were you?"

"In the garden," said John. That subtle sensation of evil vibrated more strongly along some sixth sense to his brain.

"In the garden," Henshaw echoed.
"And what were you doing in the garden?"

John looked from one staring face to the other. "I was watching the rest of you!" he said coolly.

Kire was a silence. Was it imagination that Rodriguez's lamp had dipped? Or that Manuel had crooked his arm backward toward his hip pocket and then, upon a glance from Henshaw, had dropped it again? It might be imagination, but John Moore was taking no chances.

hand into his left coat pocket and moved the gun forward until it bulged out the cloth. The three men were staring at his face as he did so and their eyes did not move, but he knew and he knew they knew that he had two guns trained on them. He reflected grimly that the time seemed to have arrived when his best sal-tricks of fancy shooting might be extremely practical. It was a matter of cold satisfaction to him, now, to know that by means of them he dominated this situation. He was an expert marksman and he could shoot nearly as well with his left hand as

and flared in the cold night wind that came gusting along the corridor.
For a long moment the silence held.
Then, into it, trickled gently, Mr.
Henshaw's voice, plaintive and querulous. "And what did you discover by watching us in the garden, Mr.
Moore?"

"Well, I saw Manuel sneak down to you, Mr. Henshaw."

Mr. Henshaw blinked. "Ah, yes, Manuel—" he said vaguely, as if any act of Manuel's were of little importance. "But you—what were you in the garden—for?"

"I have told you," said John.
"Watching the rest of you."

"That won't do. You met Clench —that's what you were there for!"
Henshaw's words rapped out like the spat of an automatic. Rodriguez drew closer to Henshaw and Manuel stepped close to Rodriguez.

"By Jove!" thought John. "What they're after is—how much Clench talked!"

"Well?" demanded Henshaw.
In that instant John Moore plotted his course.

OLD SCOUT RECALLS CUSTER MASSACRE

VINCENNES, Ind., Oct. 10.—Jacob Adams, 75, one of the men who found the bullet riddled body of General Custer on Custer's battlefield after that famous Indian massacre, is still living in this city and recalls the incident vividly.

"I was on scout duty when I found the body of General Custer," Adams related. "It was the day after the massacre."

"Captain Benteen and I were scouting the territory near the battlefield to learn what had happened to Custer and his men for we knew there had been a big fight."

"I was walking ahead some distance and noticed some white specks. These turned out to be white horses. Custer had made a barricade of the dead bodies and I found him inside with two of his brothers, also soldiers. Dead soldiers could be seen everywhere.
All of them with the exception of Custer had been scalped. The whiskers of some of the soldiers had been cut away and the Indians had cut off the feet of many dead to get the shoes."

CONVICT FARMER ON LIQUOR CHARGE

John H. Slouffman, farmer, near Bellbrook, was adjudged guilty of possessing liquor, in a decision made known Friday by Probate Judge S. C. Wright. The farmer's trial was conducted several days and at its conclusion, the court reserved a decision.

Judge Wright deferred sentence for three days to allow counsel for Slouffman time to file a motion for a new trial.

Slouffman was accused of owning a quantity of home brew confiscated by Sheriff Ohmer Tate and deputies in a raid on a camping party on Slouffman's farm.

The liquor tested a small percentage of alcohol.

Slouffman was not at home at the time of the raid and protested that he had no knowledge of the liquor.

The Theater

A murder trial, a comedy with risqué situations, a play with an ex-gangster as the hero, another laid in New Orleans in 1850, and a revival of Gilbert and Sullivan's Mikado included in the leading theatrical efforts attracting Gollies these days.

The National Theater has been transformed into the Supreme Court where "The Trial of Mary Dugan" is taking place. Ann Harding makes a beautiful Mary Dugan, cause of his reputation for amorous prowess, and his subsequent affair with the wife of his chief, Miss Mary Nash is the seductive and seduced wife of the Minister of War.

"Four Walls" by Dana Burnett and George Abbott, at the Golden Theater is a play about an ex-gangster just returned from prison to a peculiarly depressing home and mother. Mimi Wisenfriend from the Yiddish Art Theater plays "Benny" opposite Clara Langster as the mother. "Creoles" is at the Klaw Theater and is about the ingenué forced toward a loveless marriage by financial peril to the old home.

A HEART-BREAKING TALE HOBOKEN, N. Y.—Just as the Olympic was pulling away from her dock recently, a man whose name is in the Social Register rushed up to the baggage master crying: "Where is my champagne?" It developed he had, after a telephone conversation arranged to pay in advance for the rare wine which he was to find on board the ship. He had paid hundreds of dollars for the stuff. And some bootlegger put a few more hundreds in the bank.

WIFE IS AWARDED DIVORCE; ENTRIES DISMISS ACTIONS

Mabel Clowney has been granted a divorce from John Clowney in Common Pleas Court on grounds of gross neglect of duty. They were married at Xenia September 5, 1915, and have one child, Robert William, 7, ward of Juvenile Court.

Henrietta Fillmore has been awarded a divorce from Elsworth G. Fillmore on a charge of wilful absence from home for more than three years. The couple was married at Springfield, O., July 26, 1913, and no children were born of the union.

AUTHORIZE RECOVERY

In the case of Prudence Watson against Frank Wilson in Common Pleas Court, a jury having heretofore awarded the plaintiff $200 damages, the court ordered her to recover this amount, inasmuch as no motion for a new trial was filed within the required time.

DISMISS CASES

BILL UNPAID, CHARGED

Recovery of $195, alleged due for clothing sold and delivered to the defendant, has been filed in Common Pleas Court by Frank J. Van Alstine, prominent Cincinnati tailor, against George Bocklett, this city.

Plaintiff charges the following articles were purchased and remain unpaid: One suit, $70; one top coat, $60; one sport coat, $45; and one pair of trousers, $20. Miller and Kinney are attorneys for the plaintiff.

WANTS PARTITION

Partition of real estate is sought in a suit filed in Common Pleas Court by J. A. Ellison against Ella and Edith Ellison, who are tenants in common with the plaintiff on the property.

Plaintiff claims he possesses a one-fourth interest in the land; that Ella Ellison is entitled to a one-fourth share; and that Edith Ellison owns one-half of the property as widow and heir of Roy S. Ellison, deceased. All debts and claims against the estate have been paid, according to the petition. George H. Smith is plaintiff's attorney.

HEARING SET

Exceptions made to the first account recently filed by Thomas Cook, as trustee under the will of Ella Cook, deceased, have been set for a hearing Thursday, October 13 at 9 a. m. in Probate Court.

The World And All BY CHARLES B. DRISCOLL MY TOWNS—TOPEKA

Topeka is the capital of Kansas. Its history is the history of Kansas, and there are few states that have a more fascinating history, as far as it goes.

Kansas is still a very young state. Topeka was one of the early "free-state" settlements, and it was not begun until 1854. That's a young city, even for the United States.

But Kansas and Topeka was born in strife and bloodshed. The institution of black slavery was on trial. The southern states, where there was much hoeing in the hot sun to be done, liked it and wanted it as the basis and foundation of a culture that was just beginning to bud in Virginia and Georgia.

The northern states, particularly those of New England, had no use for black slavery. The institution simply didn't fit into a northern civilization.

A new state was to be admitted soon—Kansas. Should it be a slave-holding state, or should its constitution forbid slavery? The climate of Kansas is neither that of the Old South nor that of the North. Most of the state has extremely hot summers, without very much rainfall. One could use black slaves to considerable advantage in Kansas during the summer, said the pro-slavery folk. This should be a slave-holding state.

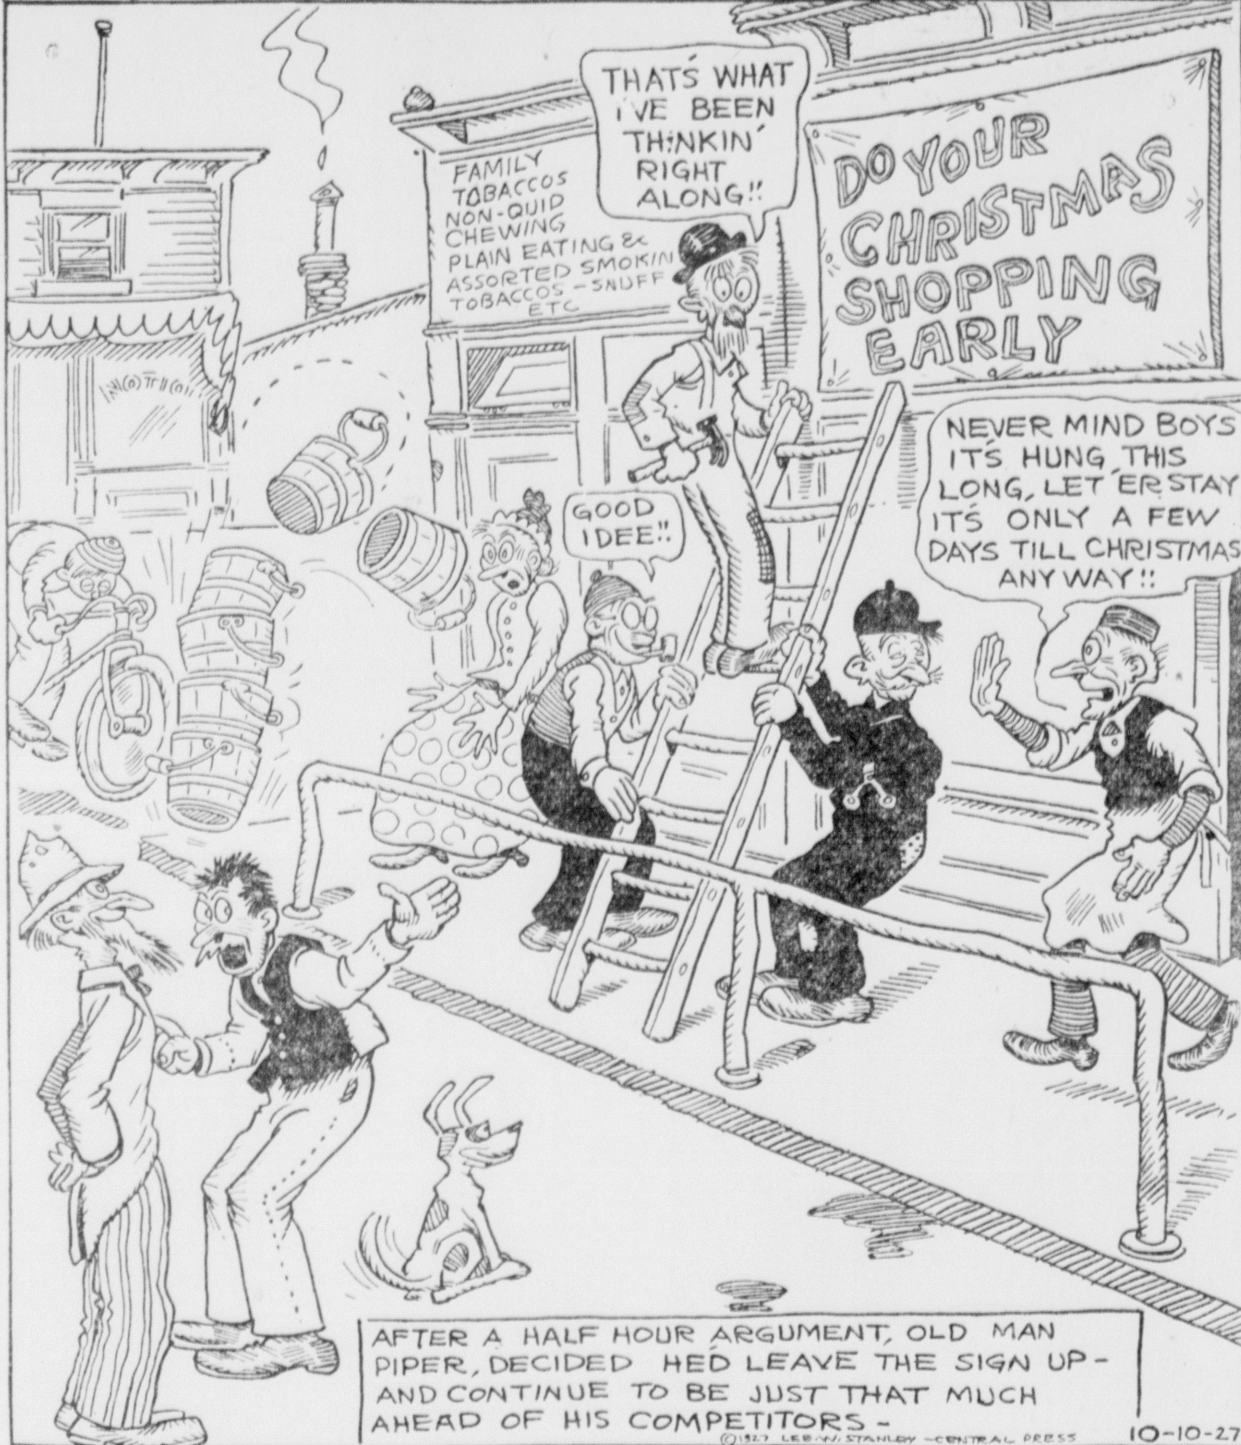

So the crusaders from Massachusetts and Connecticut poured out toward Kansas, to settle up that land with free-soil folk, so that the new state might vote slavery out of its own constitution and also hold the balance of power in congress for free soil.

They fought it out in "Bleeding Kansas," and the free-soil folk won. But the battle was not won until the Kansas conflict had spread over the nation and black slavery was abolished throughout the nation.

That's how Topeka happened to be born. Topeka has seen hot and bloody days. But you would not think so, to look at Topeka now. Peaceful, prosperous, dignified. Wide streets, wide lawns, comfortable houses, and the conventional state house dominating all with its regulation statehouse dome.

Topeka is a good, going town today. And it has its memories.

United States Senator from Texas (Morris Sheppard was born at Wheatonville, Tex., in 1875. He was graduated from the University of Texas in 1895, receiving his law degree from that institution two years later. Sheppard began to practice law in 1899. In 1902, he was elected to Congress to fill the unexpired term of his father. He served in the lower House until 1913, and has been a senator since that time.)

No other aspect of the flight of Colonel Lindbergh across the Atlantic has deeper interest than that relating to the peace of earth. To say that universal peace is most to be desired of all the ends of progress is but to express one of the oldest and most familiar aspirations of humanity.

The most serious challenge to Christianity and to all the world today is for the earliest possible adoption of some system which will substitute reason for force in the settlement of international differences. Our civilization may be hopelessly impaired by another general conflict. Two conditions sustain these gloomy conjectures. The first relates to the horrors of modern warfare. Machine power and chemicals which have brought so many blessings in eras of peace may be utilized for unspeakable destruction, terror, mutilation in periods of war.

Even the airplane, so useful and so promising in commercial lines, may become perhaps the deadliest instrument of battle. Marshal Poch has stated that one of the great factors in the next war will be aircraft and that the potentialities of aircraft attack are almost beyond measure.

The best resistance to aircraft is found only in the construction of larger and more efficient aircraft. If the recent failure of so many airplanes to cross the sea under their own power is cited as an argument against any serious danger to us from an assault by other nations, let it be remembered that airships of the Zeppelin type are able to carry planes, and that these airships have already made a number of successful trans-oceanic trips.

Sea vessels for the carriage of planes, known as airplane carriers, are now in the havies of all the world.

Says Backache Often Means
You Have Not Been Drinking Enough Water

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it may mean you have been eating foods which create acids, says a well-known authority. An excess of such acid overwork the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and clogged. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels, removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. "See urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night."

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the system, so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

BATLIN MURDER MAY EARN EARLY TRIAL

REIDSVILLE, N. C., Oct. 10. —Wheels of justice may turn for 20-year-old Mrs. Alma Petty Gatlin, bride of a few months and alleged patricide, even before the next term of Rockingham Superior Court in January.

A conference between County Solicitor Allen H. Gwyn, District Solicitor S. Porter Graves and defense counsel in the near future will probably determine whether or not a special term of court will be requested.

Solicitor Gwyn, who directed the long investigation which led to the finding of the axe-headed body of Smith T. Petty and his daughter's arrest for the crime, admitted to day that there was a strong probability that the prosecution would seek an extra term in which to dispose of the Gatlin case.

ed the meetings and were not saved and answered the question with these reasons. First, "They loved some sin better than God." Second "They held to some unbelief and would not give in to faith." Third "The lure and attractions of the world, with money, and power and pleasure." Fourth — "They think there is plenty of time." The speaker emphasized the fact that now is the time. He said:

"There are three seasons to my text—in relationship to these people, when your soul may be forced to adopt the words of my text 'The harvest is past, the summer is ended and I am not saved.' These seasons were—First—the season of final refusal, when you refuse God's mercy for the last time."

"There is a line by us unseen. It crosses every path: The hidden boundary between God's patience and His wrath."

Nor pale the glow of health. "Do not pass this unseen line," he pleaded.

"The third season of the text—'The harvest is past, the summer is ended and we are not saved,' is the season of procrastination, when you let your chance to be saved by Christ, go unheeded." The evangelist closed with some pages out of his memory of the other campaign he conducted in Xenia, when men refused, then, to accept Christ and some of them are still outside of the kingdom of God.

Three well attended services marked the closing Sunday meetings with a union morning worship at 10:45 a. m. a men's meeting at 7:30 p. m. and a closing service at 7:30 p. m. when the large church building was crowded.

At the morning service the Rev. D. A. Sellers led in prayer. The Rev. J. P. Lytle led the responsive reading. Dr. W. N. Shank asked for a large appreciation in the offering for Dr. Biederwolf. The quartet of the First M. E. Church sang a beautiful number "O Love That Will Not Let Me Go." Harry Selfert, Walter Currie, Roy Spahr and Bayless Thompson, composed the quartet.

Dr. Biederwolf used an unusual method of preaching. He had ten forward steps printed on a special card and followed each step with some forward step. These cards present to take the step with him. Practically every one present took some forward step. These cards were turned over to the pastors of the churches for reference.

At the men's meeting in the afternoon, a male chorus sang a number. J. Milton Kelly, who closed his service at this meeting, sang "Who Could It Be, But Jesus?" Judge J. Carl Marshall made an appeal to the men to "thank" Dr. Biederwolf for his services substantially. A quartet, Carl Ervin, Glen Reed, Thomas McClelland and Herman Eavey, sang a special number.

Dr. W. E. Biederwolf took off his coat and preached to the men, using for his text "Genesis 25:33—'Price of a Man'". He proceeded to show how small some men thought themselves, how cheap they were, considering the price they placed upon themselves. A large group of the men present took steps in recommitment. The Rev. L. A. Washburn, led in prayer. Dr. H. B. McElree prayed in closing the service.

At the evening service Mr. Lucas, student at Wilberforce University, sang a tenor solo, "Arise". Dr. H. B. McElree opened the service with prayer. Miss Theda Downing gave a special opening organ recital.

The Rev. Wm. H. Tilford, president of the Ministerial Association, listed a number of "folks who deserved thanks" for the success of the meeting. Every one who had helped in any special way was given hearty bursts of "appreciation applause". Dr. Biederwolf and Messrs. Grimes and Kelly, the ushers, the personal workers, the choir and the musicians, the women in charge of the prayer meetings, the First M. E. Church, Wm. Fraver, treasurer; O. E. Bradfute, executive chairman; the city authorities for the use of the street, with police protection, those who took care of Dr. Biederwolf, and Mr. Grimes, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Eavey, Mrs. Jeanette Anderson; Ed. Lang for the use of his truck. B. H. Slagle, for eleven large signs for the churches. The Evening Gazette, for the many courtesies extended during the meetings as the best medium for getting the news of the service to the people, were each thanked.

The Rev. Mr. Grimes, as it was his last night, thanked the choir and all who had helped him. When Dr. Biederwolf came to the platform he added his word of appreciation. The Rev. Mr. Grimes closed the meeting with prayer.

The closing meeting of the Biederwolf meetings will be Monday evening at the First M. E. Church, when Dr. Biederwolf will speak on his trip around the world "Evangelistic Travelogue".

Doctor Found What is Best for Thin, Constipated People

As a family doctor at Monticello, Illinois, the whole human body, not any small part of it, was Dr. Caldwell's practice. More than half his "calls" were on women, children and babies. They are the ones most often sick. But their illnesses were usually of a minor nature—colds, fevers, headaches, biliousness—and all of them required first a thorough evacuation. They were constipated.

In the course of his 47 years' practice (he was graduated from Rush Medical College back in 1875) he found a good deal of success in such cases with a prescription of his own containing simple laxative herbs with pepsin. In 1892 he decided to use this formula in the manufacture of a medicine to be known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and in that year his prescription was first placed on the market.

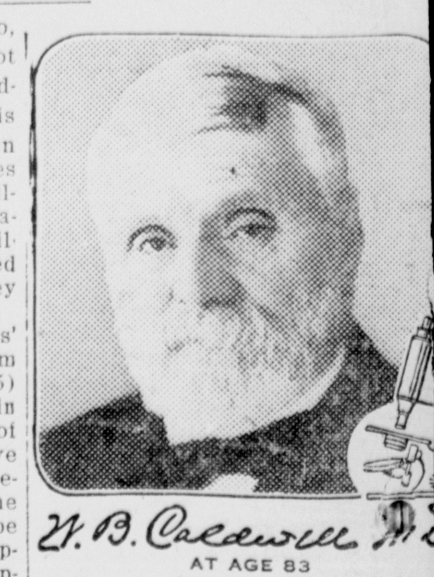

The preparation immediately had as great a success in the drug stores as it previously had in his private practice. Now, the third generation is using it. Mothers are giving it to their children who were given it by their mothers. Every second of the working day someone is going into a drug store to buy it. Millions of bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin are being used a year.

Its great success is based on merit, on repeated buying, on one satisfied user telling another. There are thousands of homes in
